IMPORTANT FROM UTAH.

The Mormons Again Disaffected.

Collision Between the Judicial Authorities and the Mormons.

The Refusal of the Grand Jury to Perform its Duties—The Judge calls upon the Military—Action of the Governor—Outbreak among the People—General Turbulence and Popular Commotion.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PROVO CITY, UTAH TERRITORY,
SUNDAY, March 27, 1859.

We have suddenly reached a most important crisis in the affairs of this Territory. The events connected with the present session of the United States District Court in this city, are fraught with the deepest interest, as they have put an entirely new phase upon the aspect of the Mormon question. It is now settled that the Judiciary of the Territory are powerless without the assistance of the military, and that in confining themselves strictly within the bounds furnished by precedents in the Judicial annals of our country, they become mere tools in the hands of an organized confederacy of villains.

It is now to be determined whether the troops now in this Territory are to remain here at an expense of millions of dollars to the nation, merely to act as wooden men—scarecrows—or whether they are to assist in asserting and maintaining the supremacy of the law and of justice among us.

In order that the public and yourself may be fully informed in regard to the condition of affairs now existing here, we shall as briefly as possible give you a complete history of the present session of the United States District Court (Second Judicial District) in this city with the incidents connected therewith.

We informed you, in a former communication, that soon after the adjournment of the United States Court in Great Salt Lake City, Judge CRADLEBAUGH, of this District, had received important information relative to crimes which were committed in his District. We now learn that since then Judge CRADLEBAUGH has satisfied himself beyond a doubt that the massacre of a train of emigrants on their way to California, numbering 140 souls, at the Mountain Meadows, in the Fall of 1857, was committed by leading Mormons, assisted by the Indians, and also that the murders of the two PARRISHES (father and son) and POTTER and FORBES, at Springville; of JONES and his mother, at Spanish Fork; of LANCE, at Lehi; and of others committed in his District, were also perpetrated at the instigation and command of the Church leaders.

There being no jail, or any kind of a prison, or suitable place of confinement in the District, and the Legislature having made no provision of law for keeping and sustaining prisoners, the Judge found himself compelled, from necessity, to make a requisition upon General JOHNSTON for a sufficient detachment of the troops to guard such prisoners as were already or might be arrested. This requisition was promptly complied with, and Company F., of the Tenth Infantry, and a small detachment from the Seventh and Fifth Infantry, numbering altogether seventy men, under command of Captain HENRY HETH and First Lieutenant N. A. M. DUDLEY, of the Tenth, were placed at his disposal for this purpose.

The United States Marshal rented a school-house in this city, which has on previous occasions been used as a Court-room, together with the adjoining vacant grounds, at the rate of $10 per day for the use of the Court.

On Tuesday morning, the 8th of March, the Court was organized, with a Mormon Clerk and a full Mormon Grand and Petit Juries, and on the same day Captain HETH arrived with his Company, and encamped on the vacant lot adjoining the Court-house, he having already in his custody some offenders, who had been committed to await their trial at this term of the Court.

The Judge, upon the organization of his Court, delivered a charge to the Grand Jury. Desirous that the Grand Jury should have no possible excuse for avoiding their responsibility in the cases which were to be brought before them, and also to ascertain fully whether it were possible to obtain justice from them, the Judge took the extraordinary precaution of calling most pointedly and decidedly their attention to crimes which have been committed almost within sight of the Court-house door.

The Judge, before the Grand Jury were sworn, discharged one of those summoned on the panel, named WILBER J. EARL, stating to him in open Court, as his reason, that he had an affidavit before him implicating him as one of the principal actors in the murder of PARRISH and POTTER.

Immediately upon the arrival of the company of soldiers, the leading citizens of Provo commenced creating a stir among the populace in regard to their presence in the city. The police force was doubled, as they asserted, to prevent the indignant citizens from attacking the soldiers.

Shortly after arriving here, the Judge called in the Sheriff of the county, and inquired of him if there was any jail or place of confinement in which to keep prisoners. The Sheriff replied that they had "no jail here, but that he thought that the prisoners might be secured in the cellar under the building in which the Court is held." The Judge then inquired if they would be safe there. He replied that "they might be kept there, if there was a sufficient guard put around them."

On Thursday, the 10th inst., after two days' deliberation, the Grand Jury brought in two bills of indictment—one against two Indians, named MOSS and LOOKING GLASS, who were removed from the Third District to this one for trial, on a charge of assault, with intent to commit a rape, on a Danish Mormon girl; the second against a Mormon, for procuring and enticing soldiers to desert.

On the 12th inst., the following correspondence passed between the Mayor and Common Council of Provo and Judge CRADLEBAUGH.

PROVO, March 11, 1859.

To the Hon. John Cradlebaugh, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States for Utah Territory, and ex-officio Judge of the Second Judicial District:

Your memorialists, the Mayor and Council of Provo City, beg leave respectfully to represent that,

Whereas, The City Council have received petitions from the various wards of the city representing that a detachment of the United States troops for several days past have been encamped on the seminary lot, the officers occupying the west lower room of the seminary building without the consent of the Council or citizens of this city, and to the no small annoyance of the community, tending directly to intimidate those persons who have occasion to attend the District Court, now in session in the seminary; and also, rendering it exceedingly difficult for the officers of the city to preserve the peace between the unruly portion of the citizens and soldiers, several unpleasant circumstances having already occurred, and their present location around the seminary savoring of a military interference with the municipal regulations of American citizens:

Your memorialists respectfully pray your Honor to cause the immediate removal of the troops, now occupying the seminary and vicinity, beyond the limits of the city. And your memorialists as in duty bound will ever pray.

On behalf of the City Council.

B. K. BULLOCK, Mayor.

Judge CRADLEBAUGH replied:

PROVO CITY, March 12, 1859.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council of Provo:

GENTLEMEN—Your letter of the 11th inst. has just been received. In reply to it I take occasion to say that the movement of a company of infantry to this city, and their temporary location here was well considered before it was determined upon. It was a matter of necessity. There were a number of prisoners to be tried before my Court; neither the Territory nor the city afforded a jail or other place of confinement for them. No manner of provision had been made for their support or sustenance, neither by the Territory nor your city. To secure these prisoners and to maintain them are duties that I owe to my office and to them.

I have adopted the only means left me of accomplishing these objects. The military company, kindly furnished by the commanding General, both secure and support these prisoners. That this small force should be near the Court-house, or the building used as such, is not only a matter of convenience, but of necessity to the Court. This I will say, however, that so soon as I can dispense with their most useful services, I shall do so.

You speak of their being here to the annoyance of the citizens of this city and intimidation of those persons having business with the District Court.

When, where, or in what manner these soldiers have annoyed, or interfered with the citizens of Provo, I challenge you to show. A more quiet, orderly set of men I never saw; they have deported themselves with a propriety and decorum truly remarkable.

As to your remark about intimidation, allow me to say that good American citizens have no cause to fear American troops.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

JOHN CRADLEBAUGH."

On the 15th the City Council sent a rejoinder to the Judge's letter, in which they asserted that they were ready and willing to "secure and safely protect any number of prisoners."

"That the lives and liberties of all persons accused are jeopardized by the examination of witnesses and action of jurors, under the influence of a military intimidation and espionage.

"We have been under the necessity of doubling the police force, and exerting ourselves to prevent indignant citizens from doing violence to the soldiers."

They also asserted most falsely that the soldiers had been disorderly, and then continued in a long high-flown strain of indignation, of which the following passage is a fair specimen:

"Your Honor says that 'good American citizens have no cause to fear American troops.' The gallantry of our officers, the discipline and bravery of our soldiers, have rendered our armies a terror to the enemies of liberty throughout the world; but when, through prejudice, political intrigue, speculative selfishness, or other causes, these gallant arms are placed in a position to intimidate American citizens, why should the not fear?

Honored Sir, when our gallant army, or any portion thereof, is degraded by any cause whatever, from that high position which the Constitution and laws have given it, as the arm of national defence, to the low station of supplanting the civil power, it must most certainly be feared by every American citizen, not blind to the perpetuity of our national institutions. As a beginning a single corps, highly honored for its discipline, the superior skill and scientific attainments of its officers, is placed out of its constitutional sphere to perform the duties of sheriff, marshal or jailor, the military power then supersedes the civil, in a limited degree to be sure, but military power seldom retrogrades and jurors are controlled by them; the Court follows in the wake—that bulwark of human liberty—an independent, high-minded judiciary, sustained by the people, is thus annihilated—the legislative and executive departments are soon overcome, and the sword of a Julius Cæsar puts an end to the whole fabric of liberty."

The Judge also received a petition, signed by the witnesses on the part of the prosecution, summoned here in the different cases, praying that the troops might be kept here for their protection.

In the mean time, the time of the Court was taken up, during its sessions, with the naturalization of aliens, some eighty or one hundred of whom were admitted to citizenship.

The Judge, on this subject, decided that no one who has borne arms against the United States during the five years next preceding his application could be admitted to citizenship, on the ground that he had not behaved as a man "attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same," and therefore allowed the examination of witnesses on that point.

On the 14th inst., Gov. CUMMING arrived here from Great Salt Lake City, and a few days after he addressed a letter to Gen. JOHNSTON, in which (as we understand), after stating that a detachment of troops are encamped here against the repeated protests of the inhabitants, and that although he had been here several days, Capt. HETH had not reported officially to him, he requests the General promptly to order the removal of the command from the city. He also adds that he is satisfied that the presence of the military here is unnecessary, and that should he hereafter have reason to believe that they were necessary here, he would promptly take measures to secure their services to act as a posse comitatus.

In reply, Gen. JOHNSTON probably told the Governor that he himself was commander of the army of Utah, and would send his troops where he thought best, and that if Capt. HETH had reported officially to him as Governor he would have been guilty of gross military impropriety, but we do not know definitely what the reply of the General was. We know only this, that the troops have not been removed, but that, on the contrary, more have been sent to their aid.

Under the laws of the Territory the Grand Jurors are selected by the Clerk of the County Court, (the County Commissioners are here styled the County Court,) and on Wednesday, the 16th inst., the Grand Jury still failing to report, although some ten witnesses had been examined, and the Judge being fully satisfied from the composition of the Jury that the Commissioners had designedly placed upon the panel the very persons engaged in the commission of these murders with their relatives and friends, in order to prevent any bills from being reported, he commenced the examination of the witnesses in the Parrish case himself, acting in his capacity as a committing magistrate, and upon the evidence adduced issued warrants for the arrest of a number of persons implicated.

On the day following, —— MCDONALD, who was Mayor at the time of the murder, and —— DALEY, a policeman, and KEARNS, the Marshal of Springville were arrested and put under guard.

On the 18th, KIMBALL BULLOCK, the Mayor of this city was arrested, but the next day, upon further examination, was released.

In the meantime the demonstrations of the people against the soldiers became so positive that Capt. HETH fearing that an attempt would be made to rescue the prisoners in his hands from him—sent to Gen. JOHNSTON for assistance—whereupon on the 19th inst., a force consisting of eight companies of Infantry (three from the Tenth and five from the Seventh,) with one section of artillery and one company of dragoons were sent under the command of Brevet-Major G. R. PAUL, of the Seventh, and encamped on the Provo River, about 6 miles above the city. They have since moved and encamped within four miles of the city so as to be ready for any emergency. The soldiers are under the strictest discipline and are not permitted to approach the city—so that they do not in any manner molest the citizens.

Upon continuing the examination of the witnesses LORIN JOHNSON, another member of the Grand Jury, was implicated in the Parrish murder—as also AARON JOHNSON, the Bishop of Springville, and JOSEPH C. SNOW, the President, of the Provo Stake. These men, however, all fled and escaped before the Marshal could arrest them, and it is said have gone into the mountains. The Bishops of Parowan and Cedar City, near the scene of the Mountain Meadow massacre, have also fled; and, in fact, you can now scarcely find a leading Bishop, teacher or other prominent churchman in the southern settlements—they have all secreted themselves.

On Monday, the 21st inst., the Grand Jury not having examined a single witness since the preceding Wednesday, and still refusing to make any report whatsoever, were discharged by the Judge, who made to them some very pointed remarks on the occasion.

On the same day, the Mormon who had been indicted for enticing soldiers to desert, was tried and acquitted by the Petit Jury. The Judge then discharged the Petit Jury.

The ensuing morning, the prisoners who were held to answer before the Court, including the two Indians MORE and LOOKING GLASS, were discharged from the custody of the court, the Judge stating to them that they were not discharged because of any proof of their innocence, and that if they had really committed any offences the probability was that they would yet be punished for them, but that as there seemed to be an effort here to cover up all crimes and offences committed by the Mormons, this Court had determined not to be used by this community for its protection against "Gentiles" and Indians, until a disposition was manifested to punish its own high offenders. And that if the community could not be brought to a proper sense of duty in any other way, the Court would assume the responsibility of turning criminal loose to prey upon criminal,—for the Courts could not be used merely to punish one set of criminals and protect another in the commission of even more flagrant crimes. He moreover told the Indians that they might remain with the soldiers, for protection, until they returned to camp.

The Judge has since then adjourned the Court from day to day, but has been daily engaged in the examination of witnesses in the murder cases.

The evidence adduced is astounding, and will form a dark, dark chapter in our history. We shall be enabled by the next mail to forward you the particulars of this evidence, and you will then perceive the importance of the decisive steps which Judge CRADLEBAUGH has taken.

Without the assistance of the military nothing could have been done. Every single witness who has testified has sought immediately the protection of the troops, and does not dare to leave it. They are in the greatest fear of the "destroying angels," for they have seen their work before. Two more arrests have been made of men who attempted to escape to Salt Lake City; when they reached there, however, their lives were threatened by some who feared that they might be induced to testify, and fearing that the threats would be carried into execution, they sought the protection of Secretary HARTNETT. One of them, named DURFEE, is the man who led the PARRISHES and POTTER out when they were killed; he acknowledges his guilty participation in the crime, and is anxious to become State's evidence.

There are several witnesses now under the protection of the troops, who can identify the devils who led on the parties who massacred and butchered the California emigrants at the Mountain Meadows.

In Salt Lake City the greatest excitement has prevailed in consequence of the movements here. The Mormons are all under arms and have spies out day and night. Expresses run from here there every few hours.

The Governor returned to the city on the 23d inst., and on the night of the 25th a long memorial was presented to him, a copy of which I herewith inclose to you. It is a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end.

The Deseret News issued an Extra on the night of the 25th, containing copies of the petitions sent to Judge CRADLEBAUGH and of the memorial to the Governor. This sheet is full of misrepresentations. One of the prominent falsehoods is the statement that the Grand Jury sent a remonstrance to the Judge upon their discharge. This is not so, the Judge has never received a single word or line from them.

The following are extracts from this document:

"It has pleased Judge CRADLEBAUGH to set aside, in several instances, the civil authorities, and, without the least valid reason known to us, to employ federal troops to execute the orders of the Court, thereby clearly indicating on his part, so far as we can discern, an utter disregard of the latest expressed views and policy of the Administration concerning Utah, and the views and policy of your Excellency and all good citizens, and a settled purpose, for some cause, to force an angry collision between the citizens and troops, which is well known is not so difficult to accomplish in the best ordered town or city in the Union, especially when one class is caused to illegally supplant, taunt, and oppress the other.

That the peaceful policy of the Administration and of your Excellency be not subverted by the vile schemes of such sutlers, speculators, camp-followers and gamblers as plot evil and bloodshed for gain; that citizens be not imposed upon in any of their rights, nor when subpenaed as witnesses, treacherously arrested by bench warrants and unfed and without bedding, guarded by troops, nor jurors to attend to their duties under the bristling of bayonets; that the laws be respected and magnified; that the citizens be not goaded until they cannot sustain their anger, and thus forego for a time the happy results of the labors and toils of so many patriots and philanthropists, and cause the riotous to exult with joy; and that your Excellency "take care that the laws be faithfully executed;" we, your memorialists, citizens of the United States in the Territory of Utah, respectfully petition your Excellency to use all the influence and authority of your official position as Governor of this Territory to remove all Government troops from in and around the Court now in session in the city of Provo and from in and around said city, and to prevent any troops being located in or infringingly near any of our thickly-settled villages, towns and cities, and to fairly and fully, at your earliest convenience, report to the proper department in Washington City, the official proceedings of Judge JOHN CRADLEBAUGH, in the Second Judicial District of this Territory, and for such wise, loyal, and just action by your Excellency, your memorialists and petitioners will ever pray.

We know not what action the Governor will take upon the memorial which has been presented to him, requesting him to remove the troops. We merely know what his former actions have been in pursuance of his fictitious peace policy. He has already left the seat of the Executive Department of the Territory to come and endeavor to break up the session of the U. S. Court, by depriving it from all protection or power. In this he has failed signally, and we look with interest for his next movement in support of the Mormon policy.

A difficulty between some Mormons and a detachment of soldiers in Rush Valley, has added fuel to the prevailing excitement. It appears that the Mormons had squatted on the Military Reservation; these Mormons having refused to leave after due notice had been given to them, a squad of men were sent to drive them off. When they reached the place the soldiers were insulted by the Mormons there, and one of them, a young man named SPENCER, drew his revolver and aimed it at the officer in command, when the sergeant of the squad immediately knocked him down with the butt of his rifle, slightly fracturing his skull. An army surgeon was immediately sent for, who dressed the wound, and the youth is now recovering.

The weather still continues very stormy. We have had snow-storms, and very severe ones at that, on an average of two a week the whole month, and on the mountains it has snowed almost incessantly.

The following is a list of the companies and officers in the command under Major PAUL, now camped three miles from here:

Co. H, 10th Infantry—Capt. A. Tracy.

ATTEMPTS OF THE AUTHORITIES TO ARREST CRIMINALS—THEY ARE THWARTED BY THE MORMONS—TERRIBLE MASSACRE AT MOUNTAIN MEADOWS—PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR, WHO IS SERENADED BY THE MORMONS.

PROVO CITY, UTAH TERRITORY,
Thursday, March 31, 1859.

The United States Marshal and his deputies have been thwarted in every manner in their attempts to serve the processes of the Court during the past week. They have experienced the greatest difficulty in finding any one for whom they were searching.

In the villages, they can obtain nothing but evasive replies to their inquiries relative to the residence of any one, and but few of the inhabitants seem to know even who their next door neighbor is.

On Monday morning, the 28th inst., Deputy-Marshal BROOKS attempted to arrest GEO. HANCOCK, the Bishop of Payson, but after searching thoroughly his house retired unable to find him. HANCOCK was the principal actor in the murder of JONES and his mother. We have now positive information that not only this Bishop of Payson has fled, but also the Bishops of Cedar City and Parowan. JNO. D. LEE and H. HAIGHT, who were deeply implicated in the Mountain Meadow massacre, AARON JOHNSON, Bishop of Springville, who directed the murder of the PARRISHES, POTTER and FORBES; BLACKBURN, Bishop of Provo, and WM. SNOW, President of the Provo Stake, accessories to these and other crimes, and —— EVANS, Bishop of Lehi, concerned in the murder of JACOB LANE, have all made their escape to parts unknown.

Four of the persons who sat on the Grand Jury lately discharged by Judge CRADLEBAUGH, have been deeply implicated by the evidence adduced before the Judge, and have fled: as also the father-in-law of another of the Grand Jurors. But few of the others have called for their pay, and are not to be seen. This forms a most striking illustration of the working of the law passed by the Legislature at its last session, and signed by Governor CUMMING, which prescribes that the juries for the United States District Courts shall be selected by the County Courts. In this case the County Commissioners, who constitute the County Court, being all men of high standing in the Mormon Church, and appointed by BRIGHAM YOUNG thought that they would prevent an investigation into the crimes committed under the direction of the Church, by taking the "bull by the horns," and placed upon the juries the very criminals themselves, together with their relatives, friends and accomplices. At the time the Grand Jury were sworn in, the Judge had to dismiss one of them, on the ground that he had an affidavit already filed before him implicating him in the Parrish murder.

The prisoners now in custody cannot procure a single witness for the defense. Every person who knew the least thing concerning the crimes under investigation have either fled under a consciousness of guilt, or have been compelled to leave by the church authorities. The following statement made under oath by one of the prisoners implicated in the Parrish murder will fully illustrate by whom witnesses and others are "intimidated."

DURFEE, his companion, who joined him in seeking the protection of Secretary HARTNETT, it will be found by the history of the PARRISH murder, which I herewith inclose, was one of the chief executioners of the Church, but he preferred to risk his neck in the halter, which the law now holds over him, than to the dreadful tortures and butcheries prescribed by the Mormon Church, which he himself had assisted in inflicting on others.

GEORGE BARTHOLOMEW, after giving his testimony in regard to the murder of the PARRISHES, says:

"It all passed off well enough until two weeks ago, the second time that Marshal DOTSON came to summons me as a witness; then ANDREW NILES and SANDFORD FULLER came to me and told me I must go off into the mountains and join WILBER J. EARL and ABRAM DURFEE, whom they told me were then up in Limekiln Canon. [EARL is also proven by the testimony to be one of the murderers;] I started out immediately that night from the house where I then was (MCBRIDE'S,) followed by two of the men who were then there, and went up the mountain towards the point indicated, fearing, however, that there might be a plan laid to put me out of the way. After I had got up the mountain about eighty rods, I slipped to one side into a little gully, and from thence got up among some rocks and hid until the men who were following had passed and lost me. I then turned and went in another direction about half a mile to Rock Canon, where I concealed myself. This was on Friday night. I remained there until Sunday night with nothing to eat, and exposed to the storm which raged that day. Sunday night I returned to town, and, without going home, went to URIAH CURTIS' house. Here I was again notified that I must go to where DURFEE and EARL were, or abide the consequences. This notice was given me by WM. JOHNSON, the Marshal of Springville. OLIVER and HARLAN MCBRIDE were sent to go with me, and in the evening we went out and found DURFEE and EARL a little way up Hobble Creek, hid among the willows. We had scarcely got there when WM. BIRD and URIAH CURTIS came to us on horseback with an express telling us we must start immediately for Salt Lake City. They would not tell us who the message was from, but said it was "counsel" that we should go to the city, and also charged us particularly that we should keep along the mountains and not allow ourselves to be seen by any living being, but must travel at night and remain hid in the daytime. In obedience to this counsel we three started, and traveling along the mountains that night camped for the day early the next morning between Provo Cañon and Battle Creek. The next night we crossed over the mountains of the Traverse Range instead of going round through the Jordan Cañon, and the next morning camped near Dry Creek, in Salt Lake Valley. We remained here until about noon, when EARL seemed to get very uneasy and wished to travel on. DURFEE and I opposed it because we had been forbidden to travel by day, but as he persisted in going on we finally consented to go also. Then, instead of avoiding the roads, as we had been "counselled" to keep out of sight of men, EARL took a straight course down the road leading to the town of Cottonwood. When he got within a half mile of this town he stopped and buckled his pistol round in front of him, and then wanted us to go up in the willows on the creek above the fort, and wait there until night. These circumstances aroused our suspicions in regard to his intentions, and we believed that there was a plan laid to kill us there. We would not, therefore, go with him, but made him go on with us.

When I got opposite the Fort, I stopped and asked them whether they intended to kill and butcher me, as they had done others, and told them that I believed that that was their intention. They both denied it positively, and EARL said I must be going crazy. About a mile beyond Cottonwood Fort a man passed us riding at full speed on horseback; he rode at full speed until he got out of sight. DURFEE and I verily believed that that man was one of a party concealed on the creek to kill us, and that EARL wanted to lead us to them."

He then relates other circumstances occurring on the road, which continued so to excite their suspicions against EARL that, when they reached the city, they took the first opportunity to slip away, and ran to the "Gentile" store of Messrs. LIVINGSTON, KINKEAD & Co., and asked for protection. They were placed under the protection of Secretary HARTNETT until the Marshal arrived and took them in custody. During the time which they remained at the Secretary's they were not confined at all, but they would not leave the room in which they were placed—not even to go to meals.

By recent advices from the Southern settlements we are informed that the towns in the vicinity of the scene of the terrible massacre at Mountain Meadows are almost depopulated. In Cedar City, a town of between 800 and 900 inhabitants there are but twelve or thirteen families left. The men have all fled in consequence of the news which had reached them of the decisive action of the United States Court in this city.

The Indians under the leadership of the Mormon Chief CA NOSH are collecting in the neighborhood of the Mountain Meadows, and are already 1,000 strong. CA NOSH has been joined by two of the Southern tribes, and his force is increasing daily. He expresses his determination to resist to the death all attempts to arrest any one in that vicinity. We are also informed that there are several white men with him.

On the morning of Tuesday, the 29th day of March, Marshal DOTSON having received information which led him to suspect that certain offenders against whom he had warrants in his possession were still concealed in the town of Springville, secretly summoned a posse of five civilians, and having made a requisition upon Major PAUL for a company of dragoons, left this place between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning with this force.

The company of dragoons were commanded by Lieutenants GORDON and LIVINGSTON, of the Second Dragoons, and accompanied by Lieutenant KEARNEY, of the Tenth Infantry.

Previous to the departure of the main body a small party was detached, who proceeded rapidly in advance and stationed themselves at a point where they could intercept any messenger who might be sent to give notice of their approach. As the party, however, left most secretly and silently, in the midst of a heavy snow storm, no one seems to have noticed their departure.

Upon reaching the town it was immediately surrounded by details from the company of dragoons, who were so stationed that no one could possibly leave the city unperceived by them.

Just at daybreak, the Marshal with his deputies entered the town, and commenced the search of all those houses in which it was suspected the offenders might be concealed.

The house of Bishop JOHNSON was one of the first entered, but no one was found therein, except his ten wives. Four of these wives are sisters, and the Bishop's own nieces, and he has besides these, two sisters out of one family, and also a mother and her daughter. This is polygamy with a vengeance. These wives received the Marshal with a very good grace, even joking with him in regard to the fruitlessness of his search.

After an hour's search, no trace of the persons sought for (some eleven in all) could be found. Not only those implicated had flown but also many others not before suspected. In fact nearly one half of the male inhabitants of Springville, where the PARRISHES were murdered, have run off and concealed themselves, leaving their numerous wives and families at the mercy of the "d——d Gentiles," and of a "licentious soldiery."

It being rumored that some of them were concealed up Hobble Creek canon, the Marshal proceeded up the canon some eight miles, but not finding any trace of them, and the snow becoming very deep, so that it was difficulty that the horses could proceed, they returned to this city from their unsuccessful search.

On this same day (Tuesday) an express reached here from Governor CUMMING and distributed copies of the following so-styled Proclamation:

By Alfred Cumming, Governor, Utah Territory

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, One company of the United States Infantry, under the command of Captain HETH, is now stationed around the Court-house at Provo, where the Hon. JOHN CRADLEBAUGH is now holding Court, and eight additional companies of infantry, one of artillery and one of cavalry, under command of Major PAUL, are stationed within sight of the Court-house; and,

Whereas, The presence of soldiers has a tendency, not only to terrify the inhabitants and disturb the peace of the Territory but also to subvert the ends of justice, by causing the intimidation of witnesses and jurors; and,

Whereas, This movement of troops has been made without consultation with me, and, as I believe, is in opposition to both the letter and spirit of my instructions; and,

Whereas, General JOHNSTON, Commander of the Military Department of Utah, has refused my request that he would issue the necessary orders for the removal of the above-mentioned troops:

Now, therefore, I, ALFRED CUMMING, Governor of the Territory of Utah, do hereby publish this my solemn protest against this present military movement, and also against all movements of troops, incompatible with the letter and spirit of the annexed extract from the instructions received by me from Government for my guidance while Governor of the Territory of Utah.

[L. S.] In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the Territory to be affixed. Done at Great Salt Lake City, this 27th day of March, A. D. 1859, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-third.

ALFRED CUMMING.

By the Governor:
JOHN HARTNETT, Secretary of State.

EXTRACT.—"It is your duty to take care that the laws are faithfully executed, and to maintain the peace and good order of the Territory, and also to support by your power and authority the civil officers in the performance of their duties. If these officers when thus engaged are forcibly opposed, or have just reason to expect opposition, they have a right to call such portions of the posse comitatus to their aid as they may deem necessary. If circumstances should lead you to believe that the ordinary force at the disposal of such officers will be insufficient to overcome any resistance that may be reasonably anticipated, then you are authorized to call for such number of troops as the occasion may require, who will act as a posse comitatus, and while thus employed they will be under the direction of the proper civil officer, and act in conformity with the instructions you may give as the Chief Executive Magistrate of the Territory."

Gov. CUMMING has at last defined his position, unmistakably and unequivocally. He has set himself up in opposition to the efforts of the Judiciary to ferret out and punish those who have been guilty of those heinous crimes which have made the term Mormon almost synonymous with that of a treacherous murderer, and now endeavors, by a usurpation of power, to make the Judiciary subservient to the Executive in order to carry out the policy so earnestly advocated by the Mormons before the Peace Commissioners, viz: "let by-gones be by gones."

The position now assumed by the Governor in regard to his authority over the United States troops is this: He concedes that the United States Judges and Marshal have the right to make a requisition for troops, but he contends that after they have procured those troops, that he has the full control of them. It would be strange, if the Judges have the power to call for the assistance of troops, that when they have obtained that assistance, it should be by Executive dictation that it would become of benefit, or would be removed.

Immediately upon the receipt of the Proclamation here it was publicly reported that the Governor had issued orders through Lieutenant-General DANL. H. WELLS for the militia to prepare themselves and be in readiness to march and drive the troops from Provo by force, if they were not removed by order of Gen. JOHNSTON.

In Salt Lake City the band of the Nauvoo Legion serenaded the Governor the night after he issued his Proclamation.

The affidavit of GEORGE BARTHOLOMEW, already given, and the following affidavit made by those of the witnesses for the prosecution who are now in the City, will show fully by whom witnesses and Jurors are intimidated:

Territory of Utah, Utah County, ss: We, Albert Parrish, Henry Biggins, James O'Bannion, Leonard Phillips, Orin Parrish and James Gammell do solemnly swear that we are, and have been, for several years past, residents of the Territory of Utah, that we were summoned to appear as witnesses before the United States District Court for the Second Judicial District of said Territory, which convened at the city of Provo, on the 8th March, 1859, that we possessed certain knowledge of various crimes which had been in the past two or three years committed in said district, on account of which said knowledge we had been so summoned; that on account of the participation in or sanction afterwards, of the said crimes, by the community in which said crimes were committed (emanating, as we believe, from the authorities of the Mormon Church) we considered our lives and property in imminent peril from the Mormon community should we appear and testify to the facts within our knowledge, unless a portion of the United States troops should (as they have been) be stationed in the town of Provo, near enough the Court-room to guarantee safety, and that from the Mormon community we have received threats of intimidation in case we should divulge the facts concerning said crimes, which have come to our knowledge, and which threats we believe would have been carried into execution but for the timely aid afforded by the Commanding General in the stationing of troops now in and near the city; and, further, we believe our lives to be in danger hereafter, without military protection from the United States troops. And further deponent saith not.

CHAS. E. SINCLAIR,
Associate Justice Supreme Court,
Utah Territory.

On Wednesday, the 30th inst., Judge CRADLEBAUGH, after the opening of his Court, made the following remarks in open Court in regard to the Governor's Proclamation:

"I have received a document from ALFRED CUMMING, Governor of this Territory, which in its reading purports to be a Proclamation, while in the body of the document it would seem to be a kind of protest. Instead of being addressed to the General commanding the Department of Utah, it seems to be intended for the public at large. Taking the whole thing together, it seems to be designed to exasperate the people of this Territory against the troops, to obstruct the course of public justice, and to excite insubordination in the Army.

In this document, Governor CUMMING speaks of a company of United States Infantry being stationed around the Court-house, in which I am now holding a term of the District Court, and also of several additional companies of Infantry, one of Artillery, and one of Cavalry, being stationed in sight of the Court-house.

He also says that the presence of these soldiers has a tendency, not only to terrify the inhabitants and disturb the peace of the Territory, but also to subvert the ends of justice by causing the intimidation of witnesses and jurors. He says that this movement of troops has been made without consultation with him, and against the letter and spirit of his instructions.

In regard to his statement that troops are stationed "around the Court-house at Provo," I have only to say that the assertion is not true. They are stationed near the Court-house, and entirely on one side of it. The additional troops referred to as being "stationed within sight of the Court-house," are at least four miles distant. This assertion must have been designed to create a false impression as to the relative situation of the Court house and the troops.

In regard to the inhabitants being terrified by the presence of troops, it is proper to say that many of them are very much annoyed by their being here at this time, but those who seem to be stricken with terror have fled the country on account of crimes committed by them, and the fear of just punishment for their offences. Among them are to be found several of the jurors, Presidents of "stakes," Bishops, and also civil officers of the Territory.

It is, perhaps, proper to say that the Grand Jury was selected by the County Court, under a recent act of the Legislature of this Territory, which was signed and approved by Governor CUMMING, and that several notorious criminals were members of it.

That none but those who are conscious of guilt are under the influence of fear, is manifested by the fact that at all times, when the Court is in session, the Court-room is crowded by hundreds of citizens.

The assertion that witnesses and jurors are, or have been, intimidated by the small military detachments near the Court-house, is without foundation. While the real fact is that witnesses have been threatened and intimidated by the very inhabitants who are said to be so much terrified.

To such an extent has this been carried, that witnesses who appear and testify in behalf of the prosecution are compelled to seek safety under the protection of the troops that are here, many of them having signed a petition requesting that the troops shall not be removed, and representing that their security and safety depended upon their presence.

In regard to the statement that the troops are here without consultation with His Excellency, the Court has yet to learn that it is subservient to, and cannot act except under executive dictation."

Time was requested by the counsel for the defence, in order to procure their witnesses. They state, that the witnesses had been here, but had "stampeded." The Marshal has been after these witnesses several times already, but they have fled and are not to be found.

The Court expressed its entire willingness to adjourn the Court from day to day, and give the defence every possible assistance in its power in procuring witnesses.

Mr. WILSON, the Territorial Attorney, made a statement of a great number of cases, which have come to his knowledge, and requested to know of the Court whether it would proceed with the investigation of them. The Judge replied that he would not examine any cases at this place, except those in which he had already issued warrants, but that he would devote his time at his place of residence, during the ensuing Summer, until the Chief-Justice arrives, who will supersede him in this District, to the investigation of all criminal matters within the District, and hoped to be able to probe them to the bottom.

By an act of the Legislature, passed at its last session, Judge CRADLEBAUGH was transferred to the Carson Valley District, but he has the right to continue to act here, as a committing magistrate, until the arrival of Judge ECKELS, who was transferred to this District.

The Court will probably adjourn sine die next Saturday, but the Judge will continue his examinations.

It is a fact worthy of notice that the families of these criminals now in custody seem to entertain no fear in regard to the fate of their relatives—as it is asserted they have an assurance from the Governor that if they are found guilty, and sentenced under these circumstances, he will pardon them. It is even reported that the Governor's object in visiting this town lately was to prevent the possibility of the execution of any of these villains, whom it is his intention to pardon, he fearing at that time that they might be found guilty and summarily executed.

The weather remains cold, stormy and Wintry. The Spring is unusually backward. A. B. C.

The Murder of the two Parrishes, Father and Son, and of Potter, at Springville, Utah Territory, March 14, 1857.

PROVO CITY, U. T., Thursday, March 31, 1859.

In the Spring of 1857, the Mormons became unusually severe upon all "Gentiles" and "Apostates," and it was the same Spring that all the United States Government officers remaining here were driven out of the Territory.

In the Southern settlements, it appears from evidence now before the Court, that it was by no means an unusual thing for the Bishops and Elders to preach of "cutting off" all "Apostates" from the earth; of killing or sacrificing them to prevent their falling from grace, and thus to save their souls in eternity.

In the little town of Springville, the PARRISH family had apostatized and determined to go to California. They had, consequently, disposed of all of their available property and purchased a span of horses and a carriage and a complete traveling outfit. Their movements attracted the attention of the Bishop and Elders, and it was determined that they should not be allowed to leave. Two "Council" meetings were held in a private room at the house of AARON JOHNSON, the Bishop of Springville, at the first of which two men, DUFF POTTER and ABRAHAM DURFEE, were set apart for the purpose of watching the movements of the PARRISHES and finding out all that they could in regard to their plans. This was done and everything reported at the second council meeting, which was held one week before the murder. At this second meeting it was resolved to take away their traveling outfit, and of thus preventing them from going. A few nights afterwards PARRISH was robbed of all his horses and his carriage. He found one span of his horses the next morning in the Bishop's stable, but when he claimed them the Bishop told him pointedly that he could not have those horses to leave the Territory with.

Mrs. PARRISH, after her husband's death, found the other two horses in the stable of the Mayor of Provo K. BULLOCK; these she obtained possession of.

DURFEE, after having been set apart by the Council to watch the PARRISHES, succeeded in obtaining some employment from Mr. PARRISH. He and POTTER then persuaded PARRISH that they wished also to go to California, and would go with him. After his horses and carriage had been stolen, PARRISH determined to leave his family and start as soon as possible on foot, as he now became alarmed for his personal safety.

DURFEE and POTTER agreed to go with him on foot. In the meantime offers were made to him to restore his property, upon condition that he would remain. He still expressed a determination to go, and was thereupon told that he would never see his horses again. Being led to suppose, from the threatening manner of the men who made these propositions to him, (ALEX. MCDONALD and WILBER J. EARL,) that they wished to kill him, he bared his breast to them there and told them that if they intended to do him any harm, to do it then and there. They replied that they were not ready to shed blood then. When he returned to his wife after the interview—which she overheard—he told her, at the same time writing it down, "You will be a living witness when I am gone."

It was now arranged that the whole party should start on Sunday, March 14, 1857, and that, to avoid suspicion, they should leave town during the day, one at a time. The whole party were to unite, just after dark, at the corner of a fence of the road, about half a mile from the town.

On Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock, POTTER and DURFEE were at PARRISH's house. PARRISH then asked them if they were true to their trust. DURFEE replied: "Yes, brother WILLIAM, I am as true as a hare, but when it comes to the test, I don't know how I shall do." POTTER took a gun to pieces for PARRISH, so that he could carry it out concealed.

PARRISH and DURFEE left town together at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. DURFEE returned again about dusk and started out with the two boys, ORRIN and WM. BEASMAN PARRISH; he told Mrs. PARRISH that her husband was waiting for them a short distance outside of the Fort. He then takes them outside of the city wall, and tells them to go and wait for him at its southwest corner; they go there and wait, and in a short time he rejoins them. He now asks the elder of the two, who was called by his middle name, BEASMAN, to go with him into a field to hunt for some things which he said were hid there, but they return in about ten minutes without having found anything. While they were gone the younger son the report of a gun in the direction of the point at which they were all to meet; and on DURFEE's return, he asked him what it meant. DURFEE told him that there were Indians camped in that vicinity, and it was probably one of them who had fired.

DURFEE and the two boys now started towards the corner of the fence, where they were all to meet after dark. As they approached the place, DURFEE called out, "DUFF! DUFF!" (POTTER's name,) and stooped and looked towards the fence on the east side of the road. They then proceeded on until within about twenty feet of the corner of the fence, when some one called out, "DURFEE!" three times. DURFEE answered, and immediately a gun or pistol was fired, and BEASMAN PARRISH, the eldest son, who was the farthest from DURFEE, fell mortally wounded. Both of the sons were unarmed. Several shots were then fired in rapid succession, the ball from one of which lodged in a cartridge box which ORRIN PARRISH wore on his belt. DURFEE, in the mean time, drew up his gun, pointed it at ORRIN, and snapped a cap.

ORRIN immediately started and ran across the fields and clambered over the city wall at a place where it was rather low. In doing so, however, he hurt himself quite severely. He ran to his uncle's house and rushed by some 10 or 12 men who were standing in front of it before they could stop him.

He told his uncle that BEASMAN was shot, and wanted him to go and see if he was killed. His uncle, however, was afraid to go himself, but sent another man in his place. This man was stopped at the gate and told if he went a step farther he would be a dead man.

That night a wagon is procured, and a company of men start with it from the school-house and go after the bodies. POTTER and old man PARRISH are found lying close together, near the corner of the fence. POTTER was killed by three buck-shot, which entered the left breast; these were the only wounds on his person. Old man PARRISH was covered with knife wounds, and was literally cut to pieces. His throat was cut on the left side, his bowels ripped open, and he had cuts on his back, arms, legs, in fact, all over his body. He had no bullet wounds on his person. Young PARRISH was lying about twenty yards off. He was shot with four balls, which entered through his left arm and passed out at the centre of his back.

The bodies were placed in the school-house, and the next day Mrs. PARRISH was allowed to see them. A sort of inquest was held by JOHN M. STEWART, Justice of the Peace, who was present at both the "council" meetings in which their fate had been decided.

CARPE was there and was examined, but had but little to say. ORRIN PARRISH was called to testify, but his uncle had previously told him not to tell anything which he knew and so he said but little. The verdict was of course brought in, "Murdered by persons unknown."

In the evening of that day Mrs. PARRISH, hearing that ORRIN was at his uncle's, went over to see him and found him in bed, weak from the effects of his hurt in jumping the wall. She attempted to speak to him, but was jerked away by WM. JOHNSON, who was stationed there to guard the boy. He told her she should not speak to him unless it was out loud. She then asked ORRIN where his father was? He said he did not know. Seeing a crowd about the school-house, she sent her third son to see what was the matter, and he found out that the body of his father and brother lay in there.

The same Sunday on which the second "council" meeting was held, after church services in Provo City, President JAMES C. SNOW, of the Provo stake, desired to know if there was any one there who would take a letter for him to Bishop JOHNSON, of Springville, and deliver it into his hands. A man, with his horse all ready saddled and bridled, stepped and took it. As SNOW handed it to him, he remarked, "dead men tell no tales." That night, in the "Council," Bishop JOHNSON spoke of having received the letter, and made the same remark, "dead men tell no tales."

Mr. PARRISH had in his pocket book, at the time he started, a $500 or Territorial Draft, but Mrs. PARRISH has never received a single thing which was found in his possession.

The testimony has disclosed the names of all who were present at the councils, and who participated in the crime. They have, however, all fled the country.

Six men implicated implicated in this dreadful murder are now under arrest, among whom are DURFEE and MCDONALD.

THE ENGLISH ADMIRAL'S FARM IN MASSACHUSETTS.—The Boston Traveller publishes another side of the story about Admiral COFFIN's farm in Brighton, Mass., about which there is a legal controversy pending. It appears now that the aforesaid farm was not originally purchased by Admiral COFFIN for his servant PARKINSON, as has been stated, nor, we are assured, was a life interest given to PARKINSON for saving his master's life. Admiral COFFIN was much interested in the improvement of the breed of horses in this country, and purchased the estate to be used as a stock farm. This was in 1830. He placed it in charge of a man by the name of HARRISON, who subsequently disappeared, and is supposed to have committed suicide in consequence of a love affair. PARKINSON, who had been a faithful and attached servant of Admiral COFFIN, was sent over to take care of the horses, of which a large number had been put upon the place. Upon the disappearance of HARRISON, PARKINSON was placed in charge of the farm. After the latter had been upon the farm for some time, Admiral COFFIN, in reply to repeated requests for assistance, offered him a pension of £50 a year or a life interest in the estate which he occupied. PARKINSON chose the latter, and lived upon the estate undisturbed until the day of his death. The friends of Mrs. PARKINSON have taken the law into their own hands and reinstated her in the house, thereby rendering themselves liable to a criminal prosecution, besides defeating the well judged intentions of the rightful owner of the estate, upon which she is now a squatter.

The new club-house (Mercantile) in Kilby-street, Boston, has been seized by creditors who effected a violent entrance. The Traveller says, it will be remembered that this Mercantile Club was established some two months since by a Mr. SMITH, who represented himself as a wealthy planter in Virginia, and who stated that he had started a similar establishment in Charleston, S. C., and was about proceeding to Montreal to start a third. This Smith is a man of fine address and an adept in his business. He had furnished the apartments in the richest style, and had become indebted to some of our shrewdest merchants to the amount of some $8,000. One of the creditors, suspecting that all was not right, attached the property.

A destitute woman, with three children, lately found friends in Cincinnati, after walking barefooted a distance of 90 miles, from Bracken County, Kentucky, on her way to join her relatives in Pittsburgh. Her husband has forsaken her, having gone to California years ago. When discovered in Cincinnati, the mother and her children were nearly dead from hunger.

INTERESTING FROM LIBERIA.

Steamer Arrangements—Adjournment of the Legislature—Impeachment of a Judge—The Returned Africans—General News.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

MONROVIA, LIBERIA, Friday, March 11, 1859.

Liberia is not without her inconveniences and impediments. Circumstances arise here, as well as elsewhere, which greatly affect the interests of the people, and embarrass their operations. The new arrangements, which change the stopping place of the English steamers from Monrovia to Cape Palmas, have given great dissatisfaction here, as well as materially affected the mercantile interest. Cape Palmas is the most southern port in the republic, and is in no way capable of giving that encouragement to the line which Monrovia has always done. The arrival of the mail by the steamers here is very irregular, as we have to depend on sailing vessels to bring it from, and carry it to, Cape Palmas to meet the steamer. Various have been the surmises for this change, but none have assumed anything like a definite or a reliable shape.

The Legislature adjourned on the 1st inst., after the longest session that has ever been held. Several important bills were passed, among which was an act revoking all the corporation charters, and placing a tax on property. Heretofore there has been no tax on the people, excepting the small pittance which the corporations levied.

Quite an interesting case, in the form of an impeachment, was before the House of Representatives. Judge J. M. MOORE, of this country, has been acting in such a manner as to be objectionable to a large portion of the people. Among the many charges, he promised for a respectable fee, to give advice to the counsel of Capt. SIMONS, of the Regina Cœlia, in the case of salvage which was about to be tried before him; threatened "to shake the Government from centre to circumference if charges of impeachment were presented" against him; furnished a citizen with some slander against him, purporting to come from one of our merchants, and remarked that if he (the merchant) "is brought before me, he will not get off so easily as he did before." This merchant, on a former occasion, was made to dance up to the tune of $1,300, previous to Judge MOORE's coming on the bench. The House investigated the conduct of the Judge, which resulted in an address to the President for his removal. In that address there were criminal charges, and when it came to the Senate a Conference Committee was appointed, to confer with a similar one from the House, to request that body to take out the criminal charges or impeach the Judge. The House would do neither. The Senate contended that every one, according to the Constitution, who is so charged, has a right to be heard. The result was, that although nearly every Senator believed, and so expressed himself, that Judge MOORE was not worthy to preside over the Court, yet they would not go for the address in its present form. It was rejected by seven to one.

Among the Episcopal missionaries by the M. C. Stevens, who are now stationed at Cape Palmas, several of them have been attacked with fever—Mrs. HUBBARD, of New-York City, Mr. and Mrs. RAMBO, and Mrs. MESSENGER.

The Congos sent here by the United States Government have been distributed along the coast by the Colonization Society, and placed under teachers for intellectual and moral training. The effects of their close confinement at sea, and the salt provisions which they were obliged to eat, have begun to manifest themselves in the most carious and offensive ulcers.

The National Whig Convention nominated President BENSON as a candidate for reëlection. He was the choice of the True Liberian Party four years, and was borne into office over the most strenuous efforts and bitter vituperation of the Whig Party. He is now squarely on the Whig platform, with such increased popularity, that no man among the True Liberians is willing to risk his reputation by opposing him.

Fears were entertained by the colony of Sierra Leone that a disturbance was about to break out in the Shebro country, but the appearance of a detachment of the First West India Regiment at the scene of action soon brought the natives to terms. After many promises to adhere to treaty stipulations on the part of the natives, and many threats from the military, the expedition returned in H. M. ship Trident, bringing with them as a hostage THOMAS STEPHEN CAULKER, chief of the Plantain Islands. An attack was made on Port Locko a short time ago by some hostile natives. The town was burnt to ashes, and the traders had to fly for their lives, and leave their property to be plundered. The Governor of Sierra Leone sent a military force to protect the British subjects.

INTERESTING FROM MEXICO.

Resume of News—Reported Flight of Miramon—Critical Condition of the Capital—Miramon said to be en route for the City of Mexico—Forced Loans of Money—Battles—American and European Interests—War with Guatemala—Desire for Annexation to the United States—American Interests on the Isthmus—Other Items, &c.

The mails by the Coatzacoalcos, at New-Orleans, from Minatitlan on the 18th instant, arrived here yesterday. Later intelligence, brought by the Tennessee, has been received by telegraph, but the details which now reach us are of undiminished interest.

The recognition of the Juarez Government by the American Minister has given the greatest encouragement to the Liberals, while it has correspondingly depressed the Conservatives. The reported recognition was not credited in the camp of MIRAMON until about the 10th, when he withdrew his forces from Chiquihuite, where his artillery train was delayed, and concentrated all his army at Cordova. Here he expressed his intention of forcing his way through the mountain passes, with a small body of horse, to the capital. Of his army of 5 000 men, with which he retreated from the siege of Vera Cruz, he cannot now bring into the field more than 2,500. Desertion has thinned his ranks to the extent of 1 500, and the hospitals and infirmaries do not contain less than 1,000 more. At a grand parade on the 5th he made a show of 3,000 soldiers, but some of them have deserted since. In opposition to him we can count TACONI and AMPUDIA with 4,000 men, and DEGOLLADO with 8 000 more, without counting the contingent of ZUAZUA, 3,000, from San Luis Potosi, and the other detachments to the number of 2,000 more. In the City of Mexico there are 8,000 men who adhere to MIRAMON's standard, but of this number 2,000 are soldiers and the remainder are citizens who have been pressed into the service. DEGOLLADO occupied the heights about Mexico, and his Generals are entrenched in the passes leading to and from the city, cutting off all communication to and from. It is therefore impossible for MIRAMON to relieve the city, and it is equally impossible for the city to relieve MIRAMON. Another contrast is to be found in the respective conditions of the two parties, for while DEGOLLADO's troops are well fed and well clothed, having the country to live upon, the army of MIRAMON, both in the city and at Cordova, is so closely pressed for provisions and forage that corn and grass, in the language of letters from the latter, command "fabulous prices."

On the 5th arrived at the capital the reinforcements, so long hoped for, from the army of the North—ZUAZUA'S and ARAMBERRI's commands, numbering together 2,000 "fronterizmen"—who were at once incorporated in the Federal army, encamped in the environs. The event was celebrated with great rejoicing. The newly arrived troops are considered the best in the Republic, and their commanders, especially ZUAZUA, rank very high for skill, prudence and experience. "From one moment to another," says a letter of the 6th, "another attack on the capital is expected."

On the 7th inst., President JUAREZ gave a grand dinner to the Minister, which was attended by all the dignitaries of the nation, State and city, together with a sprinkling of American naval officers and citizens generally.

The Prussian frigate Gefion, of 46 guns, anchored at Sacrificios on the 8th. This is the first national vessel with the Prussian colors that ever came to Vera Cruz.

The talk of a war between Guatemala and Mexico, growing out of the invasion of the latter by the former, is daily becoming stronger.

Dr. JAMES MCKENNY, an American citizen, has gone to Mexico to reclaim damages in the sum of $500,000, for wrongs done to him and the destruction of his property in the State of Chiapas, by the combined troops of ZULOAGA and CARRERA.

Correspondence of the New Orleans Crescent.

MINATITLAN, Monday, April 18, 1859.

In my last I wrote you an account of the defeat of CASANOVA at Alvarado, and the retreat of MIRAMON from Medellin to Orizaba. In continuation of this policy of regression, he did not stop at Orizaba, but, breaking up his camp there, he commenced a retreat on the City of Mexico. At Chiquihuite he was forced to abandon his heavy artillery, on account of the impossibility of transporting it. His troops were worn out with fatigue, and so thinned by disease that his effective force did not outnumber 4 000 men. His animals were stolen from him every night, and scores of deserters took the best horses left in camp. A letter written from Orizaba, where the fugitive General made his head-quarters after his flight from Medellin, describes the condition of affairs as most gloomy and deplorable. Says the writer:

"We arrived here last night worn out, tired, hungry to death, and without a cent to pay for food; and in the road behind us we have left nothing but desolation and ruin. The army has not a dollar. But yesterday, a scandalous tax was imposed upon the people of this place, imprisoning all who do not pay; and from the way in which we are situated, it is impossible to guess when we shall arrive in the City of Mexico. Yesterday, everything in camp was embargoed, and nothing is allowed to leave camp. It is impossible, under our present circumstances, to say what is to become of us."

The contribution imposed on Orizaba amounted to $100,000, and one gentleman, whose assessment was fixed at $5,000, was imprisoned because he could not pay it. In addition to this, all the valuable horses in the city were pressed into service to remount MIRAMON's cavalry.

On the 6th inst. Gen. AMPUDIA occupied the heights of Acultzingo, which command the road between Perote and Puebla. Gen. AMPUDIA's force numbers 4,000 men, with a considerable train of artillery. Here he has erected such fortifications as will effectually stop the progress of MIRAMON towards Puebla. His troops are well provided for, and entertain the most sanguine hope of resisting any force that may attempt to pass their works.

On the 3d a brigade of 400 men, which sallied out of Puebla for the purpose of reinforcing MIRAMON, was defeated at Huamantla by the Liberals under CARVAJAL, losing 80 prisoners, 150 horses, and a considerable quantity of ammunition.

On the 1st April Gen. LLAVE attacked and captured the city of San Juan Co comatepec, which was defended by a small garrison under the fighting priest JUAN ORTEGO. A severe skirmish was maintained by the padre but military genius won the day, and the parson was taken in the toils, although he made fight to the last, and only surrendered his well charged fusee to physical force. A court-martial soon after decided that the holy father merited death and he was accordingly taken out and shot, together with two of his principal agents. Padre JUAN ORTEGO was a character, if all the histories related of him be true, for he is charged with being the author of ZULOAGA's original defection, and subsequently with Gen. MIRAMON's coup d'état. He has been a regular politician and guerrilla, fighting, preaching, intriguing, praying and fasting, until half the evils of this country were traced to his deviling. Under these accusations he was adjudged worthy to die.

The Oficial Boletin, published at Tacubaya, details the particulars of the battle of Calamandia, fought on the 18th ultimo, between 1,500 Liberals, under General ARTEAGA, and 4,300 Conservatives, under Generals CALLEJO and MEJIA. General ARTEAGA commanded the garrison at Queretaro, but having no fight on hand, he marched out to reinforce DEGOLLADO, then marching on Mexico. CALLEJO and MEJIA, who were similarly situated at Guanajuato, started out to reinforce the city. These two forces met at the River San Juan, near the village of Calamandia, between Queretaro and Mexico, and a fight ensued. ARTEAGA took refuge in a heavy wood, where he tare w up fortifications with Mexican celerity, and the Conservatives charged upon his lines. They met with such warm fighting as to cause them to fall back in about an hour. Another attack was made, but it was short and decisive, for when Generals CALLEJO and MEJIA made their next retreat it was final, leaving a number of prisoners and a quantity of ammunition in the hands of ARTEAGA. When CALLEJO arrived in the city, he was put under arrest as a traitor in correspondence with DEGOLLADO, and the probabilities are he will suffer another defeat.

On the 1st of April, CORONA, who commands in the City of Mexico, sent out a force of two thousand men to make a report on the position of DEGOLLADO's forces. Once outside of the city, in the direction of Cherubusco, with an open country before, and a rather scant feed behind them, five hundred braves under Gen. QUEJADA deserted, and fled to the mountains. Shortly afterwards the first and second battalions of cavalry, who entered the city under CALLEJO, deserted to DEGOLLADO.

The factionist TRUJEQUI, who made his encampment at Acaringo, was taken prisoner with a small detachment of his party, on the 17th of March. He was taken to the town of Zacatlan, where he was duly tried by a Court-Martial, and on the 9th inst. he was publicly executed, together with all his party.

DEGOLLADO had negotiated a loan in Guanajuato of $600,000, with which he part paid off all his soldiers, and then proceeded to advance a pro rata to his officers. His men are well fed and contented.

Letters from Michoacan, received in this city by merchants, represent the interior of the country as almost entirely peaceful, and that conductas of money will soon be dispatched to Tampico for export. The road to Vera Cruz is dangerously harrassed by straggling Church parties for the entire distance, and it is definitely closed at Cordova, where MIRAMON's encampment is at present fixed.

Correspondence of the Alta California.

LA PAZ, Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1859.

A few days since the Queen of the Isles touched here from Mazatlan on her way to Guaymas, and brought us some news of the state of the seige of Mazatlan, and among other items that on the evening of the very day that the St. Mary's sailed for Acapulco, (Jan. 5,) the English frigate Alarm got under weigh, and sailed up among the Constitutional fleet and anchored. The next morning she summoned them all to surrender, and Admiral NORTON had to haul down his flag and surrender the command so bravely won. Capt. SWEAT, of the Queen, says the thing was publicly talked of in Mazatlan, that Capt. CURRY, of the Alarm, got $10,000 for the job. The Liberals were very indignant about it. The Conservadores said if true, it was right, though, doubtless, false, for the sake of Capt. CURRY and the honor of the British navy. It is to be hoped the affair will receive some attention from the proper British authorities.

The Queen of the Isles gives the following as the current account of the provocation of the seizure of the Constitutional war-schooner Iturbide. Soon after that vessel was cut out from under the guns of the forces holding Mazatlan, she commenced taking prizes, one of which had some copper on board belonging to the Mazatlan branch of the French house of J. B JEKKER & Co. The commander of the Iturbide was informed that the copper was foreign property, to which he promptly replied, "That he should respect the rights of foreigners, but was compelled to hold the copper, as he knew, if it entered the port, it would be seized by Gen. ARTEAGA to make into balls." M. MUHLENBERG, the agent of the house at Mazatlan, visited the St. Mary's, which vessel lay near the Constitutional fleet, where he met the Commander, who assured him the copper was safely landed from the vessels and would be secure. Mr. MUHLENBERG returned satisfied. The day previous to the sailing of the St. Mary's Capt. CURRY sent a communication to Admiral NEWTON, who had increased his fleet to five sail, seven guns and 130 men, addressing him as the person commanding the Iturbide, to which NORTON replied "To the person commanding H. B. M.'s frigate Alarm," which astounding impertinence made Capt. CURRY feel queer, probably belligerent.

When Captain CURRY received a reply to his communication of the day previous, the St. Marys had sailed, and then the English frigate got under weigh, anchored among Captain NORTON's fleet, beat to quarters, opened her port-holes, lit her matches, and the gallant NORTON had to give up his ship, which the frigate manned, and with the rest of the fleet, seven sail in all, sailed down again to the harbor of Mazatlan.

As doctors say, after you ascertain the disease, seek for the cause of the complaint. Now, how could the English captain be in any manner interested in this civil war between parties in Mexico. Owing to the revolution and the Pacific steamers touching at Manzanillo, the present cruise of the Alarm on the station may have been a very unprofitable one to the officers. Hundreds of thousands of coined dollars are known to be waiting at Culiacan and Durango for the raising of the siege of Mazatlan, to find their way to that port, and thence on board the English man-of-war, in her to Panama; thence to England. The Alarm was soon to be relieved, and what other resource was there to arrive at this desirable consummation, that was to benefit so many, except by assisting one or other of the parties to conquer; and that one must naturally have the preference to whom the merchants of Mazatlan had already advanced some hundred thousand dollars in payment of duties, at a discount commensurate with the necessities of the Government, and in the cargoes of vessels now coasting in the Gulf, orders to enter the port.

FROM MISSOURI.

Growth and Prosperity of St. Louis—General News.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, April 21, 1859.

Since the municipal election, on the 4th day of April last, which resulted in such an unexpected majority for the Free Democracy, nothing worth transmitting to your paper has occurred.

At this season of the year our citizens are all busily employed, and have but little time to give to any matters outside of their respective pursuits.

The merchants are still shipping immense quantities of merchandise and groceries to the upper river towns, and the emigrants to the gold fields, which makes our business streets look quite brisk and our merchants cheerful. The emigration that passed up the river in such numbers a month or six weeks ago has fallen off greatly, owing to the uncertain and contradictory reports in regard to the gold. Many who purchased in this city an outfit to cross the Plains, have disposed of their equipments and settled down, either in Missouri or Eastern Kansas, to farming. This State will no doubt gain from this source no less than twenty to twenty-five thousand of a population, which, added to the emigration that is coming in from all portions of the Union, will swell our increase for one year, from emigrants alone, to from seventy five to one hundred thousand. Our city is increasing rapidly in population also. The Directory for this year, just published, gives us a population of nearly one hundred and ninety thousand people. This must be nearly correct, and if we grow for the next eighteen months as rapidly as we have for the last, and indications are all favorable for it, we will have a population by the time the Federal census is taken of about two hundred and twenty-five thousand souls. There are many valuable business places going up, which, added to the completion of our system of horse railroads, which are now placed beyond a doubt, the iron for the Arsenal and Bremen route having already been contracted for in your city, will add much to our wealth and prosperity.

B. GRATZ BROWN has dissolved his connection with the Missouri Democrat, (a paper which he has ably edited for a number of years,) on account of a misunderstanding with its proprietors, Messrs. MCKEE & FISHBACK. He will open an office in this city for the practice of his profession, the law.

Yours, VIATOR.

Another Kansas-Missouri War in Prospect.

The Jefferson City (Mo.) Examiner publishes the following military order from the Governor of Missouri. The Governor's instructions indicate the probability of a renewal of the scenes of the border warfare:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, JEFFERSON CITY,
April 5, 1859.

G. A. PARSONS, Adjutant-General of Missouri:

SIR: After a brief suspension of aggressive acts on the part of the bandits of Kansas, during which a general pardon has been granted for past offences, so far as the authorities of that Territory are concerned—a clemency extended under the impression that such a course would secure order and quiet—I again have information from reliable sources that the western border of this State, in Cass and Bates Counties, is threatened anew by a marauding band, organized or being organized in the Territory of Kansas, and that good reasons exist for believing that incursions into Missouri for the purposes of robbing, and perhaps, as before, of arson and murder, are intended thereby.

I, therefore, direct you to repair at once to the district of country exposed to such marauding incursions, and there to make such provision for repelling aggressions upon our soil, and the rights of the citizens of this State, after ascertaining the present and probable dangers to be apprehended, as you may deem necessary, by causing military companies to be organized and armed, to the extent that arms are available, and by such other precautionary measures as the exigencies of the case demand. And, as far as practicable, in your efforts or measures for the protection of the border, and in the accomplishment of the objects contemplated by the act of the General Assembly, approved February 24, 1859, hereto annexed, you will seek the coöperation of the authorities of Kansas Territory, in accordance with the second section of said act.

In whatever you may find it necessary to do, in executing the purposes mentioned, you will, as far as practicable, rely upon the citizens of the counties exposed, and upon those so exposed; and you will adopt the most economical measures, the efficiency of which can be relied upon in the achievement of the objects desired.

You will also be careful to instruct all those having command of any force organized for the objects named, not to permit any aggressive act to be done by such force which may justly tend to engender strife between the citizens of Kansas Territory and of this State.

R. M. STEWART,
Commander-in-Chief.

RISE IN LAKE ONTARIO—DAMAGE BY THE WATER.—The waters of Lake Ontario, at the harbor of Genesee and vicinity, are now higher than before known, say those who are supposed to be informed. The waters of the lake have been gradually rising for some years—six or eight, perhaps—under a law which seems to be quite uniform in its operation, and are now, perhaps, near the maximum mark. The recent gale from the northeast of course threw an immense swell upon the south shore, and with the high water prevailing, did a great deal of mischief. The east pier at the mouth of the river is entirely submerged, and during the gale the waves rolled over it and across the harbor to the west shore or beach, which was buried in deep water. The saloon and other small buildings there were deluged by water, and the inmates driven away. The wharves at Charlotte are too high, both above the water and up the stream, to be injured by the sea, but the Greig dock, on the east side, is entirely submerged, and the warehouse cannot be reached except by boats. The water now stands within four inches of the floor of the yellow warehouse opposite Charlotte.—Rochester Union and Advertiser, April 27.

REMARKABLE ICE-FORMATION.—A correspondent of the Boston Transcript tells the following: "The latter part of last November, Mr. ANDREW TWOMBLY, of Brandon, Vt., commenced to dig a well near his house, situated about a mile from the centre of the village of Brandon, on a tolerably level plain. Having excavated to the depth of fifteen feet, through sand and gravel, the workmen came to ground frozen solid, through which they continued to excavate the further distance of fifteen or sixteen feet before getting through the frozen ground. At the depth of forty feet sufficient water having been obtained, the well was stoned in the usual manner. The character of the ground was the same throughout the whole distance, viz., coarse gravel and sand—the frozen portion interspersed with lumps of clear ice. At the time the well was dug the surface of the ground was not frozen. Ever since the well was dug, up to the present time, ice forms in the well and incrusts the stone at from fifteen to thirty feet from the surface, and the surface of the water, which is thirty-five feet below the surface of the ground, freezes over every night."

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.—April 28.

Before Justice Sutherland.

Roberts vs. Whitney & Earle.—This case, involving the title to the ground-lease of Laura Keene's Theatre, was continued to-day, with further evidence for the defence.

W. S. Whitney, one of the defendants, testified that Trimble talked with him about the matter in June, 1856. He told me (said the witness) that he had talked it over with Mr. Libby; that he himself could raise $10,000, and only wanted as much more. He said he would put the thing in my hands entirely; that he would attend to the building, and make no charge for his services, leaving the financial part of the matter to me. Afterwards I saw him with Mr. Earle, and Trimble then stated that the theatre might cost $25,000, and he would pay anything above that out of his own pocket. We told him we thought it would cost $30,000 or $40,000. We finally assented to his proposal, which was this: that we should contribute $15,000; he should get $10,000 from Laura Keene, and build the theatre; if it cost more, he was to pay the excess. The title was to be in myself and Earle absolutely, but we were to divide the profits with Trimble, each of us taking one-third.

On the 26th July, Trimble procured a lease of the ground, on which we became sureties, and the same day we all went to Mr. Beardslee's and got him to draw up an assignment of it to Earle and myself. I never saw Mr. Beardslee before; never gave him any instructions about the assignment except in the presence of Trimble; Trimble told Mr. B. several times that he wanted to turn the whole thing over to us. I stated that Trimble was to have a contingent interest in the profits. He drew nearer to Mr. B. while he read the assignment, so as to hear better, and seemed to pay close attention, and to be quite satisfied with its terms. Miss Keene's agent promised to furnish the $10,000, which was to be paid to us, and deducted from her rent in instalments. Trimble then began to build, and we placed Mr. Ridell on the spot to watch our interests, and Earle and I paid his salary.

The case is still on.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Justice Moncrief.

John Bliss vs. Frederick Creighton.—This was an action to close up a partnership, in the early stages of which a receiver was appointed, who took possession of certain partnership assets. Pending the action both plaintiff and defendant died. The executor of the plaintiff, and the attorney and the assignee of the defendant, who died insolvent, and soon after having made a general assignment, united in an agreement respecting the disposal of the assets in the hands of the receiver; and on this agreement asked an order directing the receiver to apply the property in his hands accordingly. To this the receiver also gave his consent.

MONCRIEF, J.—It appearing that both parties to this action are deceased, and no order having been made to revive the same in favor of, and against the respective representatives of those parties, there is no action pending, and the decree or order for distribution of the assets in the hands of the Receiver asked for, cannot be granted. If, as suggested, the agreement embraces all the parties interested in the fund, the order of the Court, possibly, may not be necessary, and that fact will furnish an indemnity to the Receiver to distribute as arranged between themselves.

Leonan vs. The Lawrence Brewing Company.—Upon paying to the defendant the costs of the present term, and disbursements in subpœnaing witnesses examined in the preparation for trial of the issues in this action, and $10 costs of opposing this motion, the application of the plaintiff to amend his complaint, in the respect stated in the notice of motion, is granted.

SLOSSON, J.—Webber vs. Kingsland.—In this case the Jury returned a verdict for plaintiff of $1,531 38, being the full commission claimed of 2½ per cent. on 9,600 pounds freight, with interest. The Court made an allowance of $75 addition.

GENERAL MARKETS.

NEW-YORK, Thursday, April 28, 1859—6 P. M.

The reported receipts of the principal kinds of produce, since our last, have been: 70 bbls. Ashes, 7,804 bbls. Flour, 334 bushels Wheat, 7,316 bushels Corn, 3,112 pkgs. Provisions, and 688 bbls. Whisky.

ASHES—Are selling, in lots, at $5 75 for Pots and Pearls, ⅌ 100 ℔s.

COFFEE—Has been in demand, and sales have been made of 40 bags Java, at 15c.; 1,050 bags Rio, at 12c.@12½c.; 50 bags Maracaibo, at 12c.; 35 bags Jamaica, at 11½c., and 48 bags Laguayra, at 11½c. ⅌ ℔.

COTTON—Sales have been reported to-day of 1,200 bales at languid prices, including Middling Upland, at 12c., and other grades at proportionate rates, ⅌ ℔.

DRY GOODS—The auction sales to-day of Ribbons, Carpetings, &c., were quite spirited and successful.

FLOUR AND MEAL—The market has been unusually active, to-day, for State and Western Flour. The demand has been very brisk, especially for ordinary to good shipping brands of round-hoop extra Ohio, which have advanced 15c.@20c. ⅌ bbl. The inquiry has been decidedly animated for the home trade, and on speculation, and good for lots wanted for shipment, chiefly to the West Indies. The rise in State and all other than extra Ohio brands is about 10c. ⅌ bbl. The market closes quite vigorously. Sales have been reported of 26,250 bbls. Included in the sales were over 13,000 bbls. of extra Ohio, at prices within our revised range.

Unsound Flour, ⅌ bbl.	$3 75@$5 10
Common to good Superfine State	5 20@ 5 60
Very good to very choice do	5 70@ 5 80
Extra State	6 00@ 6 40
Superfine Western	5 25@ 5 75
Fancy Ohio	5 80@ 5 90
Extra Indiana and Michigan	6 00@ 7 60

Fancy Genesee	6 50@ 6 60
Extra Genesee	6 75@ 8 25
Low to very choice Extra Missouri	6 85@ 9 00

Towards the close our inside quotations, especially for extra Ohio, were not acceptable to the principal holders. No considerable quantity of really sound shipping brands of round hoop extra Ohio could be bought under $6 40, and even this rate some sellers refused for lots that had barely passed inspection. Southern Flour is in lively demand, to-day, at firmer prices; sales, since our last, 6,560 bbls., in lots, at $6 10@$6 60 for mixed and straight brands, and $6 65@$8 75 for low fancy to very choice extra brands, ⅌ bbl. Canadian is inactive, at $5 50@$7 40 for extra, ⅌ bbl. Rye Flour is in moderate request, at $3 60@$4 35 for fine to Superfine, ⅌ bbl. Corn Meal is selling slowly, at $3 65@$3 90 for Jersey; $4 30 for Brandywine, ⅌ bbl, and $19 50@$19 75 for the latter, in puncheons.

FRUIT—Sales by auction 2,530 boxes Sorrento Oranges, at $2 10@$2 30; and 650 boxes do. Lemons, also at $2 10@$2 30 ⅌ box.

GRAIN—Wheat is less active, owing, in part, to the advanced prices claimed by holders. Sales have been confined to 11,500 bushels, including prime to choice White Ohio at $1 65@$1 70; prime White Kentucky at $1 80; fair Red Western (Winter) at $1 45, and poor Milwaukee Club at $1 15, ⅌ bushel. Corn is less freely offered and is quiet. Sales 14,500 bushels at 86c.@87c. for prime to choice new Yellow Jersey and Southern; 83c.@87c. for common to choice new White do. and do.; 78½c. for inferior do.; and 82c.@82½c. for old Mixed Western, ⅌ bushel. Rye is heavy and languid, at 83c.@85c. ⅌ bushel. Barley is in slack request at drooping prices; 55c.@80c. for inferior to very choice State, Canadian and California, ⅌ bushel; sales 4,700 bushels. Oats are in pretty good demand, including Canada at 57c.@59c.; Western at 54c.@58c.; State at 52½c.@55c.; Jersey and Pennsylvania at 49c.@53c.; Southern at 46c.@52c. ⅌ bushel.

The Cunard steamship Africa, from Liverpool, April 16, arrived here last evening. Her advices have been briefly anticipated by a dispatch from the Circassian at St. Johns, from Galway, on the 18th. The news, thus received in detail, is strengthened in its belligerent character. France is indisposed to meet any of the conditions proposed by Austria as the basis of a Peace Congress, and hastens with redoubled assiduity her preparations for war. The hope of peace appears to be quite abandoned both at Vienna and at Paris. It suits the purposes of the British Ministry and of the London stock-jobbers, to assume the existence of pacific chances, which are unperceived on the continent.

Advices from Utah to the 2d of April confirm the telegraphic reports of serious disturbances in the Territory. The immediate cause of the recent outbreak seems to have been the act of Judge Cradlebaugh, of the United States District Court, in requesting the assistance of the troops to enforce the laws. Governor Cumming issued a proclamation on the 27th March, censuring this proceeding of the Judge. The Judge retorted in open Court, on the following day, by declaring the falsity of the Governor's statements. An extra of the Deseret News, of the 2d April, announces an unsuccessful search of a Company of United States Dragoons for some criminals, who had been effectually concealed by the Mormons.

The Mexican mails by the Coatzacoalcos at New-Orleans reached here yesterday. The news has been partially superseded by the arrival of the Tennessee, announced by telegraph. We give details of interest.

Señor Mata was, yesterday, formally presented to the President by Secretary Cass as the representative of the Liberal Government in Mexico. In presenting his credentials, he made a formal address, in which he conveyed the sentiments of friendship and high regard which the Constitutional Government and the people of Mexico felt for the United States, and assured the President of a sincere desire to promote a closer intimacy between the two countries. In reply, the President said that the Government and people of the United States regarded with the deepest concern the events transpiring in Mexico, and desired the establishment of such relations as would enable the two countries to live on terms of peace and good neighborhood. He also expressed his gratification that the Constitutional Government had triumphed over Miramon. The interview was of a highly gratifying character.

The Empire City, from Havana, April 24, arrived yesterday. The news is but one day later, and lacks importance.

A considerable rise in the Potomac River has damaged the works of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to such an extent as to render it probable that the coal-trade through that channel must be very seriously interfered with for some time to come. Several of the dams are badly washed, and a heavy slide has occurred at one point. It is impossible to estimate the whole damage until the freshet subsides.

A strike among the brickyard laborers has taken place in St. Louis, which has assumed a serious character, rendering necessary the interference of the military. On Wednesday a skirmish took place between the laborers and the police, which resulted in the wounding of several of the laborers and two of the policemen. Further trouble was likely to occur.

The Quarantine and Sanitary Convention held two sessions yesterday—both very interesting and well attended. The morning was given to discussing the merits of Quarantine systems. There was a disposition, on the part of some speakers, to the policy—and to that the elaborate report of the Committee appointed last year leaned—of abandoning all Quarantine, and relying entirely upon the sanitary police of cities to prevent visitations of yellow fever, but this was finally voted down—the whole report being recommitted, with instructions to strike out every radical paragraph. The evening was devoted to considering the draft of a Code of Health Laws. The Convention meets again to-day, and this evening dine, as guests of the City, at the Metropolitan Hotel.

Yesterday morning another death was added to the list of fatal casualties produced by the use of fluid lamps. Miss Matilda Sawyer, a young lady, who boarded in Sixth street, was fatally burned at 2 A. M. yesterday, by the explosion of a can of camphene while she was filling a lamp with the wicks lighted. She was shortly to be married, and at the time of the accident was sitting up making her wedding garments.

Three men, known by the names of Charles Radcliffe, Wm. Bellinger and Harry Hodges—all being well known to the Police—have been arrested on suspicion of having perpetrated the gold-dust swindle upon Mr. Taylor, a leading Chatham-street broker, several weeks since. Mr. Taylor was mulcted out of $3,800 in cash, and received therefor about three ounces of genuine gold dust and several pounds of brass filings. The examination in the case is in progress before Justice Welsh, the accused meantime being detained in custody to await the result.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer, yesterday, John Lynch and Ellen Lynch were tried for the manslaughter of Wm. F. Baker, on the 29th of January, at No. 580 Pearl-street. There was but one witness for the prosecution—the mistress of the deceased, and sister of the male defendant. Her evidence was very unsatisfactory, and the jury, on the case being submitted to them, immediately rendered a verdict of acquittal. All the parties were in the lowest rank of life, and the affair was the consequence of a disgraceful drunken squabble.

The Nassau Water Celebration in Brooklyn yesterday was a very grand affair, and passed off with great éclat. The proceedings during the day were long and imposing, and the fire-works in the evening extremely brilliant. It is said that 150,000 persons crossed the Brooklyn ferries yesterday, in addition to the usual travel.

The sales of Cotton, yesterday, comprised 1,200 bales, including Middling Upland at 12c. ℔ lb. Flour was unusually active, and prices advanced 10c.@20c. ℔ bbl. Grain was less active. Pork was more freely offered, and purchased at easier prices. Lard was heavy. Beef was in good demand. A fair inquiry prevailed for Groceries, Naval Stores, and Linseed Oil. The movements in other branches of trade were restricted.

The Tract Society.—We have received and shall publish to-morrow morning a correspondence between Daniel Lord, Hiram Ketchum, Esq., and several others, and the Rev. R. S. Cook, concerning the financial management of the American Tract Society. Mr. Cook's letter is very long and relates principally to the economy and general advantages of what is known as the colportage system of operations. The exposition is very full and will doubtless be read with satisfaction by all who are interested in the affairs of the Society.

The Mormon Troubles Again.

It seems at present extremely probable that Mr. Buchanan will bequeath the Mormon difficulties unsettled to his successor, though when he came into office, the final pacification of that obstreperous Territory was to have been one of the glories of his Administration. The Mormon grand juries will not find bills of indictment, and the Mormon petty juries will not convict persons guilty of crimes and misdemeanors, and the witnesses who appear and testify are liable to persecution and even violence. Even the Courts are exposed to intimidation, and justice is administered under the protection of bayonets. Governor Cumming has indignantly denounced General Johnston, and Judge Cradlebaugh has indignantly denounced Governor Cumming, and a collision between the troops and the Mormons at Provo is considered imminent;—in short, the subject is about as uninviting a subject as ever was handled by either President or Cabinet.

What the Government can do with an unruly population, who make no secret of their contempt both for the common law and the statutes at large, it is not very easy to say. As long as it is absolutely necessary that the people themselves should administer the law, and it is manifest the only law they recognize is one which the Courts do not recognize, the question of how the Government is to be carried on is one which is certainly involved in some obscurity. If it were possible to place Utah under a military administration at once—regulate the local affairs by decisions delivered from the drum-head—the matter would become very simple; but such a ready expedient is not now within Mr. Buchanan's reach. "The march of empire," agreeable an object of contemplation as it sometimes is, has its unpleasant side, and occasionally entails inconveniences; and no greater was ever entailed upon any growing empire than that entailed on us by the necessity it placed us under of admitting Mormons to the rights of fellow-citizenship. Constitutional government is unquestionably a very fine thing, but its value greatly depends upon the creed and character of the people who live under it. If we annexed Turkey to-morrow, Turkey would unquestionably be a very valuable possession—a magnificent commercial position; but if we tried to govern the country by our laws through the instrumentality of Turks, we should find it any thing but an agreeable ward. A United States Judge charging a grand jury of beys and mudirs upon the illegality of polygamy, and requesting them to find a bill against an imaum for indulging in two wives, would be a very laughable spectacle as even the Judge himself, unless extraordinarily deficient in humor, would speedily perceive. It would cause him still greater hilarity to be compelled to impanel a petty jury of Mussulman farmers to award damages to a rajah for assault and battery at the hands of a cadi, and expound to them the common law touching torts. This would certainly be a very droll performance, and would afford Christendom a good deal of merriment at our expense, and yet this is very nearly similar to the course we are pursuing at Utah. The Mormons are more familiar, both from early education and in various other ways, with our jurisprudence and mode of government than Turks could be; but, like the Turks, they are irreconcileably hostile to both one and the other, and, like the Turks, acknowledge another law than ours as the sole rule of right, and as affording for a believer the sole remedy for wrongs. In short, to ask Christian citizens of the United States to settle in Utah, with no better protection for life and property than is afforded by the common law administered by Mormons, is somewhat like asking them to colonize Kurdistan, in full reliance on the integrity of Kurd juries.

The whole thing—the whole machinery of justice we have established in Utah—is an absurd farce, and we all know it. We know perfectly well that no sincere Mormon will administer our laws, and we know, also, that there is no sincere Mormon who does not feel it to be his duty to obstruct their execution and bring them into contempt. We have no right to place United States Judges in such a ridiculous position as that in which those whom we have sent to Mormondom are placed, and we have no right to place either our Governors or the troops in the position of being obliged to protect themselves from public odium at the expense of their duty. If we cannot govern Utah in the regular and constitutional way, it would be far better to let it alone.

Another Judicial Conflict.

Bushnell, the first one tried of the thirty-seven Oberlin rescuers, has been convicted in the United States District Court at Cleveland, of violating the Fugitive Slave Law, and pending his sentence, application is made to the Supreme Court of Ohio for a habeas corpus, directed to the United States Marshal having Bushnell in custody, commanding him to have his prisoner before the said Court at Columbus. The parties who applied for the writ expected that it would be granted as a matter of course, it being the usual practice to issue writs of habeas corpus upon ex-parte application, all inquiry into the merits of the case being deferred until the writ is returned. But in this case a different method has been adopted. The Ohio Court, for some reason, declined granting the writ, but instead thereof entered a rule requiring the Marshal to appear and show cause why it should not issue, in accordance with the application. It may be reasonable to infer from these premises and from other facts and circumstances that the Court will finally see cause to refuse the granting of a habeas corpus in the case.

The question of jurisdiction involved in this proceeding came up in the case of Booth in Wisconsin a few years ago. Like Bushnell, he was under conviction in the District Court of the United States, awaiting sentence. The Supreme Court of Wisconsin granted a habeas corpus, under which Booth was taken from the custody of the Marshal and liberated.

Under a writ of error the proceedings of the Wisconsin Supreme Court were brought up before the national tribunal, which pronounced its decision on the 7th of last month. It was held, all the Judges on the Bench concurring, that when a person is in the custody of an officer of the United States, a State may, indeed, issue a writ of habeas corpus, and the officer holding in custody the person in question must make return to the writ, so far as to show that he holds him under a precept of the United States Court, but no further; and that thereupon the power of the State Court is at an end. Neither the formality nor the validity of the process, nor the constitutionality of the act under which that process issues, can, after such return, be inquired into either upon a writ of habeas corpus from a State tribunal, or upon any other State process.

Such was the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court pronounced as late as the 7th ultimo, and the Supreme Court of Ohio has, as yet, shown no disposition to disregard it. The public will, however, await with interest its further action. Bushnell's friends rely upon having him liberated, as Booth was. Ohio has the physical power to gratify them. But it is by no means certain that she will see fit to exercise it.

Massachusetts Law and Liquor.

When it was announced, some months since, that two individuals in Massachusetts, bearing to each other the close relation of man and wife, had deliberately assaulted a place used for the sale of liquors, and had utterly demolished the appurtenances thereof, readers naturally inquired if the act was in accordance with Massachusetts law. The despoiled owner of the property, not unnaturally, felt inclined to put a similar query, and did put it, through the summary process of the Courts. The aggrieved party was Mr. James Brown; the defendants, upon whom fell the burden of proving that they had done a lawful deed, were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Perkins. The locality in which the scene occurred was the quiet town of Rockport. The case, having been brought to trial, was decided in favor of the despoilers of Mr. Brown's goods. Chief-Justice Shaw held that a grog-shop was "a common nuisance," that a nuisance may be legally abated by any citizen, and that Perkins and wife did no wrong in waging war upon the rumseller. The ruling in this case, which might otherwise have served for a precedent, has been suddenly reversed by the Supreme Court of the State, sitting in full bench. The Court oversets the decision of Judge Shaw, on the grounds that spirituous liquors are not of themselves a common nuisance; that it is not lawful for any and all parties to abate any nuisance, however common; that the constitutional provision which directs that no man's property shall be taken from him without compensation remains imperative, unless the judgment of his peers pronounce that that property is held by an illegal tenure; and that the right of private abatement can be admitted only in extreme cases, where the individual is personally affected thereby. On these grounds, the verdict for the defendants was set aside, and a new trial ordered.

It appears to be decided, therefore, that liquor-selling, per se, is not a nuisance within the meaning of the law, even in Massachusetts. Hence, the demolition of a grog-shop, though morally an act which seems virtuous to the eye of the ultra-prohibitionist, is legally an infringement of the rights of property, and, as such, punishable as a misdemeanor. The particular case which gave rise to these rulings and counter-rulings occasioned a stir at the time of its occurrence. The precedent set by Mr. Perkins and his wife was regarded as a movement of such excellent character that it found ready imitators, and the possession of a stock of good liquor by any seller in New-England became a possession of very uncertain value. The decision of the full Bench restores the liquor dealers of that temperate section to the enjoyment of their full privileges as traders. It is, perhaps, well as it is; for the fact is certain that the morals of a community gain nothing by displays of intemperate zeal.

The New Game Law.

Whoever eats roast venison and currant jelly between the last days of January and July, delights his palate with a forbidden viand—unless his butcher can prove that the carcase came from outside the limits of the Empire State. Such is the substance of the last law that was enacted by the late Legislature. The Game Law had an eventful history during the session. Two acts were introduced, one by Mr. Conkling, of New-York, the other by Mr. Hall, of Essex, and both were severely handled in Committee of the Whole. Being sent to a Standing Committee, both were killed, and in lieu a third substituted—the offspring of Major Scolefield, of the famous Walton Club. Within a fortnight of the end of the session this was passed through the Assembly and sent to the Senate, where it was ruthlessly deprived of its enacting clause. But the Sportsmen's Club getting interested, it was fished up again and an entirely new act substituted in its place, and sent back to the Assembly. Just before Speaker Littlejohn delivered his final address, it was reported complete and the roll-call began. There was no time to call the absentees; but sixty-five votes were found, it was passed, sent to the Governor in all haste and signed at once. It provides that no person in this State shall kill any wild deer, partridge, quail, woodcock or snipe at any time during the months of February, March, April, May, June or July, under penalty of a $25 fine. To expose fresh venison for sale during the months named, is prima facie evidence that the salesman has violated the law unless he proves that it was killed before the commencement of the inhibited period, or that it came from some other State or country. It forbids any person from taking speckled or brook trout with nets, seines, weirs, baskets, spears or grapples, in any of our inland waters (Cayuga and Seneca, Crooked and Otsego Lakes excepted) between Sept. 15 and Feb. 15, under penalty of $25 fine. The law suits the sportsman, protects game, and does credit rather tardily to humanity.

Fountains.

"Lands intersected by a narrow frith," when they cannot afford to "abhor each other," still may exhibit very different emotions touching the same institution. Our people are over nothing more obstreperously joyful than in the prospect of the early removal of our fountain in the Park,—that result being made sure by the insertion in the tax levy for 1859 of an appropriation for the extension of Beekman-street across the Park. Meanwhile, across the East River, two new fountains fast approach completion, which promise to be fine ornaments to Brooklyn. The large one in front of the City Hall obstructs the direct pathway of all who enter the Hall from Fulton-street. The great basin is almost finished, and in prospect it is the particular pride of the City of Churches. The other, placed at the junction of Division and Bedford avenues, is already a pretty composition of granite, brick and marble, and has evoked in place of lots vacant of everything but thistles, ash-heaps and a dilapidated engine-house, a fine row of brown-stone-fronted residences. Fountains in fiction are always refreshing. Their spray falling on the foreheads of dusty citizens, cools and comforts them. Moreover, they are a lively witness to the fact that the city they adorn is supplied with water and enjoys Water Commissioners. But when that truth is universally known, and property has advanced to its maximum in consequence, and especially when the dolphins are dry in the mouth from January to December, and the basin comes to be solely a depository for dust and all the minor nuisances, it is best to obliterate them and accommodate travel.

A Young Lady Burned to Death.—A young lady named Matilda Sawyer, a boarder in the boarding-house kept by Mrs. Holmes, at No. 183 Sixth-avenue, was burned to death at 2 A. M., yesterday. Her screams awakened nearly all the inmates of the house, but in the general confusion and uncertainty as to the room whence the screams emanated, it was some moments before the cause of the screaming was ascertained. On bursting open her door, the unfortunate girl was discovered lying on the floor in the agonies of death. In a few moments she died. Every shred of her clothing was consumed, and portions of the body were burned to a crisp. The bedclothing and furniture were in flames. The remains which were so terribly burned that their recognition was impossible, were removed to the Eleventh Ward Station-house to await the Coroner's inquisition. The deceased was only 19 years of age, and was to have been married in about a week. Her betrothed spent Wednesday evening with her, and had left only an hour or two before the accident. It is supposed that after retiring to her room, she commenced sewing upon her wedding garments, when, by some accident, the camphene lamp which she was using, was upset and scattered over her person. She was doubtless instantly enveloped in flames, as she died in less than five minutes after her screams were first heard.

Sale of Antioch College.—Antioch College was sold at public auction in Cincinnati on the 20th April. The Gazette says:

"The institution was bought for $40,000 by Mr. M. Cummings, of New-York, the agent of Francis A. Palmer, who had a heavy claim upon the College He has, however, transferred it to its old friends, who will organize it forthwith, free from debt, under a new charter, which secures its control to the "Christian Denomination" forever, and forbids the Corporation incurring debt."

The Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge University has appointed Professor Owen to the office of Sir Robert Reade's Lecturer for the year ensuing.

QUARANTINE AND SANITARY CONVENTION

Third Annual Meeting—Second Day's Proceedings.

Is Quarantine a Humbug?—Interesting Debate.

The second day of the Sessions Quarantine Convention was still more interesting than the first. The lecture-room of the College of Physicians and Surgeons did not present a very crowded attendance at the hour of opening, (10 A. M.,) several carriage-loads of delegates having accepted the invitation to unite in the Brooklyn Water Celebration; but by 11 A. M. the Attendance was large.

After receiving several tenders of hospitality, the Business Committee reported, through Dr. Jeffries, of Boston, the suggestion that the Quarantine Commissioners' Report be read, and its discussions of the second and third propositions submitted, be considered at once. In accordance with this suggestion, the first part of the report, comprising the "History of Quarantine," was read and adopted without debate. The second part was then read, and debated at length. The questions involved were the following: Have Quarantines secured the object for which they were originally intended? If not, the reasons of their failure. The report, without committing its authors to any very radical doctrine, leaned well to the side of the party that would abolish all Quarantine.

Dr. McNulty, of New-York, moved the adoption of this part of the report. He thought it only came short in one respect; he regretted it did not definitely advise the total abolition of Quarantine. The great need of our cities was a good, effective sanitary police. There was no more use in, or call for a Quarantine of infected vessels in our Lower Bay, than there was for the establishment of a Fire Department at High Bridge to protect down-town property. The yellow fever patients, whose presence was so much dreaded, he would remove directly from on shipboard to the hospital on Broadway, and never have a fear of yellow fever spreading from them.

Dr. Guthrie, of Memphis, Tenn., called attention to the fact that Quarantine might be of great service in one climate, and utterly useless in another. Until quarantine restrictions were relaxed, yellow fever never much troubled Memphis. In New-Orleans, the disease often originated. Quarantine could do little for those localities where it was a native, indigenous disease, but where it never occurred, except upon importation, Quarantine was absolutely necessary.

Dr. Tuthill had listened to the report with great attention, and found little in it to object to and very much to approve. It was able and suggestive and it rode the fence well. But if the radical opinions of Dr McNulty were veiled under any of its paraphrases, he should hesitate to vote for its adoption. This Convention should pause before indorsing any such sentiments, even by implication. Assembled from all parts of the seaboard, men of distinguished reputation in matters of this sort, if they give currency to a doubt as to the utility of Quarantine establishments, they might expect to see the non-professional public early clamoring for the removal of all Quarantine restrictions. Here especially commerce is king; and, impatient of all that hinders its perfect freedom, it only asks the medical profession, the sanitary authorities, to tolerate the sentiment that Quarantine is unnecessary, and it will bring all its power to bear for the abolition of every ordinance or law that prohibits infected vessels from coming straight up to our wharves, breaking bulk and discharging cargoes directly on our bulkheads. That our Quarantine laws had been made unnecessarily stringent, and their enforcement unwisely oppressive, he granted. Still that they had saved Brooklyn and New-York from repeated epidemics must be admitted beyond a controversy. Sanitary Municipal regulations did not save Brooklyn from yellow fever two years ago, when starting at Bay Ridge it spread along the high land, and desolated the very best regulated part of the City. Yet it was directly traceable to the infected shipping, which, in violation of the laws, had come too near to the City. What then might have been expected if the infected vessels came directly up, and there were no barrier between the Metropolis and the pestilence? Dr. Griscom's statistics, presented on Wednesday, were intended to show how much more important sanitary regulations were than Quarantine, but they still more clearly proved how much Quarantine had done for us. In 25 years, Dr. G. said, we had lost 63,000 inhabitants from diseases engendered in the domicile, but in 50 years we had lost only 600 from yellow fever, against which mostly we erect our Quarantine barriers. Who doubted that the statistics would have read very differently if we had been without any Quarantine?

Dr. Bell (of Brooklyn) said that instead of Quarantine being a protection to Brooklyn, it was the cause of the yellow fever there in 1856. Every case that occurred that memorable summer he could trace clearly to infected ships, goods, or employes—Quarantine badly maintained was the cause of the epidemic. Moreover the fever was confined to those parts of Kings county which were sandy, hot, and wet, and stopped when it reached the paved streets.

Dr. Elisha Harris (late Marine Physician) thought that imperfect as it was, Quarantine had repeatedly prevented New-York from being swept by pestilence. The present system was indeed exceedingly deficient. Each new Health Officer, generally selected from the rural districts, with far less reference to his acquaintance with the diseases he is to combat, than with the methods of political advancement, though he studies his fees more than anything else, upon his arrival produces a budget of whims and opinions upon yellow fever. And whoever is shrewd enough to secure the berth is generally smart enough to secure the enactment of such laws as will embody his theories. Hence the curious hodge-podge that our Quarantine code presents. From the days of good old Dr. Bailey, who was always ready to go to Albany to look after some appropriations to the St. Regis Indians, but always ready to come back again, so soon as his pocket was full of new health laws, it had always been the custom of our Health Officers each to add his quota to the code. The system that results out of this compilation of crudities is arbitrary, inconsistent, more than barbarous—it is oppressive. Two features of our system are right—it is right to detain infected vessels away from the City, and it is right to detain infected goods until they have been thoroughly ventilated, and until after a heavy frost in the Fall. But this last feature is never now-a-days insisted on. No political party could afford to abolish the lighterage system by which the Health Office secures a good portion of its fees, and under which, now, goods are taken directly from the infected vessel, and before any ventilation has been insured, transferred to Brooklyn. Dr. Harris alluded to the anomalous history of the yellow fever in Brooklyn, which scourged the best-drained of lands, and wasted in mansions where everything that could be done was done to stay it; to the curious fact, too, that it broke out on Governor's Island, 4½ miles from where infected vessels were discharging cargo, and in the best ventilated upper rooms, where no fault could be found with the hygenic regulations of the quarters.

Dr. Alex. H. Stevens, of New-York, thought this was all pleasant talk, but it was away from the point. To make a point, he offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That, in the absence of any evidence establishing the conclusion that yellow fever has ever been conveyed from one person to another, it is the opinion of this Convention that the personal Quarantine of yellow fever cases may be safely abolished.

He felt sure that the proposition was true of yellow fever in New-York; if any Southern delegate thought it untrue of it in his latitude he would like to hear from him, and he would amend his resolution. The fact of the non-contagion of yellow fever he thought he saw fairly proven in 1820. Dr. S. then told how it was the former custom in New-York to fence off the yellow fever when it broke out in the lower part of the City, and that into the infected district none were permitted to go. Patients were constantly conveyed out of the infected district, but they in no case conveyed the disease to others. This point gained, that personal contagion was impossible, we had it in our power greatly to mollify the restrictions of Quarantine at once.

Dr. Guthrie added the testimony of his experience to the statements of Dr. Stevens. He urged the adoption of the resolution.

Dr. Kemp, (of Maryland,) with great respect, suggested that the mooted question of contagion or non-contagion was not pertinent to this place and to this time.

Dr. Stevens was willing to table the resolution, temporarily, but before a final adjournment he hoped the question would be candidly considered, so that the proposition might go out as a res adjudicata.

Dr. Guthrie wanted it as a finger-board, to show the progress of the profession on this topic.

Dr. Anderson (of Staten Island) saw that Dr. Harris indorsed the report, but he preferred to indorse Dr. Harris when he said, before the New-York Senate Committee, "It were well for the sanitary interests of the City of New-York, if to-day the whole Quarantine system were entirely abolished." He (Dr. A.) would offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Convention that the system of Quarantine, as hitherto maintained in the Port of New-York, has totally failed to effect its object; that all the restrictions necessary here are to detain vessels actually infected in an isolated situation from April 1 to October 1. He regarded our present Quarantine as simply unnecessary, dangerous, and an intensifier of disease.

Dr. Van Bibber inquired whether this Convention was purely local, or a national affair.

Dr. Baldwin (of New-Jersey) said that the mistake of the report lay in considering yellow fever as the only disease that ought to be quarantined. But Quarantine prevented, or ought to prevent, the importation and spread of small-pox, ship-fever and typhus. He had seen much of ship-fever in New-Jersey which was imported by emigrant ships to New-York, and thence spread over all the vicinity. This, and the arguments of Dr. Bell, proved only that Quarantine was not rigidly enough maintained—certainly not that none was necessary.

Dr. Kemp read from the proceedings of the Convention at Philadelphia the propositions which had been adopted as a starting point, and this report was the result of their adoption.

Dr. Stevens—Then the Convention did not lay a solid foundation for its labors. That platform presupposes that all Quarantines are to prevent the same diseases. But there are four different diseases that we quarantine against. We want to know what measures can be taken against the importation of each,—and it was the mistake of the report that it treated of only the preventives against yellow fever.

Dr. Reid, of Edinburgh, suggested that Quarantine was a string with two ends. If we pull only at this end—only legislate for the port of arrival—we half do the work. This Convention should consider the whole field—deliberate with reference to the regulations necessary at the port of exportation as well as of arrival.

The President ruled Dr. Anderson's resolution out of order.

Mayor Rodman, of Providence, moved to submit the whole report to the Business Committee—but as it had already been there, (as Dr. Jeffries, of Boston, informed him,) this was withdrawn.

Mr. Neilson (of the Chamber of Commerce) was no Doctor, knew nothing about yellow fever—but with all respect he thought this Quarantine was a humbug. Last season a ship of his went to Boston, having lost two of her crew with yellow fever. She was detained two days, and then discharged her cargo, yet no harm came of it. If she had come here, she would have been detained below for weeks, greatly increasing the expense, and he believed with no additional safety to the port. He said he sat once in front of the Staten Island Hospital, and noting a poor sallow fellow, whom he supposed to be suffering from yellow fever, he asked him if that was the case. The sick man answered, "No; he had a sore leg. But the doctors had taken him to the Yellow fever Hospital, and thought he had the yellow fever, until after a day or two he told them that it was only a sore leg he had, and then they let him out. [Laughter.]

Dr. Jeffries asked if there was any gentleman present who could honestly say that Quarantine had accomplished what it professed to do? He certainly could not. The report was conservative.

Dr. Jones, of New-York, wanted to fetch the discussion back to the start, and to a point. The question was taken on the adoption of the second part of the report, and it was adopted.

The third part of the Committee's report was next read by Dr. Bell. Dr. Griscom decidedly objected to one paragraph in this part which says, "the Committee candidly confesses that it knows of no existing system of Quarantine that can be esteemed correct in theory, or calculated to secure any beneficial result in practice." Other portions were equally objectionable and incorrect.

Dr. Guthrie took the same ground.

Dr. Griscom resumed, and by statistics proved that New-York had only been saved from yellow fever by Quarantine. For 34 years prior to 1809, we had 17 visitations of yellow fever. In the 34 years subsequent to that date, (when first anything like an effectual Quarantine was established,) we had only two visitations.

Dr. Stevens—But since then we have introduced Croton water.

Dr. Griscom—But Croton water don't prevent yellow fever, nor does drainage. Dr. G. proceeded at some length to argue the value of Quarantine to us—explaining lucidly why, under the New-Orleans theory of yellow fever causes, we had not suffered it as an epidemic when it was introduced.

Mayor Rodman cautioned the Convention, in view of the effect it would have on Boards of Health, subjected as they always are to the pressure from commerce, not rashly to indorse the radical doctrines of the report.

Dr. Watkins, of Troy, followed in the same strain.

Dr. James Wood said the literature on the subject would not justify the doctrines of the report, and moved to recommit the whole of it (including the parts already acted on) to the Committee responsible for it, with instructions to report it complete and free it from its radicalisms, to-day—which Dr. Kemp, one of the Committee, confessed he had assented to in haste. This motion was carried, and at 3 P. M. the Convention adjourned to meet again at 7½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening was occupied from 7½ to 10½ P. M., discussing the points of a draft of a sanitary code for cities, which was reported by Dr. Henry G. Clarke, of Boston, by appointment of the Baltimore Convention. Some objection was made to adopting the code, on the ground that it could not possibly be made to fit all States and cities. Dr. Jedediah Miller thought that every legislature had the ability to draft its own laws—the function of this body was to suggest the principles to which all codes should conform in certain respects. Gen. Wetmore eloquently urged the necessity of some sanitary legislation—but this code, admirable as it was in its suggestions, would not furnish the necessary legislation for New-York. Dr. Kemp objected to those features which intrusted to the State a supervision of the sanitary affairs of cities. Being interrogated, he outlined the plan of Baltimore's sanitary regulations. The State empowers the City to protect its own health in its own way. The Board of Health consists of three men, all physicians, but not of necessity such. The city physician and Commissioner of Health (both members of the Board) are required to survey the whole city every two weeks or so. There is a Policeman in each Ward specially detailed to enter every domicile on fixed days and report its condition, the state of its yard, cellar and outhouses to the Board; a health warden and a vaccine physician for each Ward also report daily, and the Board has full power to compel all places to be disinfected, nuisances to be removed, &c.

This subject is to be resumed to-day at 10 o'clock. The invitation to a dinner given by the City, to delegates, at the Metropolitan, this evening, was accepted, but the invitation to visit the Islands declined for lack of time.

ONE DAY LATER FROM HAVANA.

The Empire City, Captain S. P. Griffin, left New-Orleans at 8 A. M. on the 20th, and entered Havana harbor at sunrise on the 23d, where she found the Company's steamer Moses Taylor, last from Aspinwall, and coaling. The Moses Taylor left three hours later for New-York. The Empire City left on the 24th, arriving at this port yesterday morning.

Business, at a stand still during Holy Week, awaited on tip-toe the close of solemnities at this 10 A. M. of our arrival, and as the morning wore on and the hour approached an unnatural stillness pervaded the air, and Havana seemed the city of the seven sleepers. Many of the shops were closed, not a volante had been seen in the streets for the previous fifty hours, they were tabooed by the authorities, and, in consequence of the heavy rain of the night previous, the streets were in a wretched condition.

The ebb of strangers continues, and will soon drain the hotels to their Summer level.

The authorities are keeping watch and ward for the coming fillibusters, who will scarcely prove a surprise party at this late date. They have swept the threshing floor for their reception; it is scarcely doubtful who will pay the piper.

The Empire City has experienced pleasant weather since noon of the 23d, at which hour she left Havana. On the 26th, at 11 A. M., lat. 26° 21′ N., lon. 79° 50′, W., passed bark D. Jex, bound North; also, 27th, 7½ A. M., passed bark Flying Cloud, with head of maintopmast gone, lat. 37° 25′ N., lon. 74° 37′ W.

The Observance of Good Friday and other Church Festivals.

Allow me, Sir, to make a few observations with reference to an omission which I observed in your issue of last Saturday, as well as on former occasions Under your caption of "City Intelligence" you state, as you have repeatedly done during several past years, that "Good Friday was observed generally, yesterday, by the Catholics and Episcopalians. Divine service was celebrated at the usual hours in all the Churches of these denominations." Even the Unitarians are named as having commemorated the day. The omission to which I refer, and which is, of course, unintentional, regards a denomination of Christians, which, though very numerous, is very unobtrusive, and makes no efforts to force itself upon public notice. But it is well known to all who are conversant with ecclesiastical affairs, that there is not a Church in Christendom more strictly observant of the great and solemn festivals which commemorate the momentous facts of Christianity, those glorious events which form the historical basis of the Christian faith, than the Evangelical Lutheran Church, both here and in Europe. This mother-church of the Reformation has immensely increased in this country during a number of years past, and is represented in this City and its suburbs by at least twelve distinct congregations and their churches, while many more are to be found in the vicinity. Under these circumstances, and considering that no Church more strictly observes, by solemn religious exercises, the great Christian festivals, I have repeatedly been pained by observing in your notices of these celebrations, the omission of the Church of my Fathers, and to which I myself belong. I am entirely persuaded that this omission can have arisen only from inadvertence and want of information, and I venture to send you these few lines only because I feel well assured that, being better informed, you will not hereafter forget us, Lutherans, when you notice, at their respective seasons, the celebrations of the Christian festivals.

Respectfully yours, GERMANICUS.

Reception of Señor Mata as Mexican Minister—His Address and the President's Reply.

Washington, Thursday, April 28.

This afternoon Señor Mata was formally presented to the President by Secretary Cass. In delivering the letter which accredits him as the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Mexican Republic to the Government of the United States, he conveyed to the President, at the same time, the sentiments of friendship and high regard which the Constitutional Government, as well as the people of Mexico, entertain for him and for the citizens of this great republic. Señor Mata continuing, said:

"The first, and certainly the most gratifying of my duties in the act of presenting myself to Your Excellency, in my official character, is to assure you of the sincere desire which I have to draw into closer unity the relations of your Excellency's Government and those of the Government of my own country. The desire by which I am actuated is that of contributing to the extent of my ability to the development of the interests of both countries, and the hope which I cherish is that the two Republics, already united by common principles and like interests, will become daily more so, until they shall have held up to the world the glorious evidences of two nations connected by bonds of perfect brotherhood. It is peculiarly gratifying to me, Mr. President, to have it in my power to be able to present to your Excellency on this occasion the well deserved tribute of my profound respect for your person, and to give expression to the fervent wishes which I entertain for the advancing march of the people of the United States, under your Excellency's wise administration, in the pathways of freedom, civilization and progress, in which they have so nobly entered."

The President, in the course of his reply, said that the Government of the people of the United States had always regarded with the deepest concern the events transpiring in the sister Republic; their desire had always been to establish such relations as would enable the two countries to live on terms of peace and good neighborhood, and to fully develop their mutual and reciprocal interests. In recognizing the Constitutional Government of Mexico we had followed the course heretofore pursued, and this was done as soon as it was ascertained that the Government was capable of maintaining its authority and was sustained by the people. He was gratified that, for the first time in their history, they had so generally declared for the Constitution and laws, and that the revolutionary movements of a military chieftain had been so signally defeated.

No dispatches have been received from Minister Lamar by either of the last arrivals from Nicaragua. This remissness on his part is a serious disappointment to the Government.

A Strike of Brick-yard Laborers.

St. Louis, Thursday, April 28.

A strike among the laborers in some of the brick yards, which has been in progress for several days, assumed a riotous character yesterday, and a considerable amount of property was destroyed. The police were called out, and after a slight skirmish, resulting in the wounding of several laborers and two policemen, the rioters were dispersed. This morning the men assembled again in large force, and assumed such a threatening attitude that the Mayor gave orders to the military to preserve the peace.

Anderson's saw-mill was burned yesterday; loss $20,000.

The movement among the strikers this morning has been much exaggerated. There was no hostile demonstration, and the military were withdrawn. The excitement still continues, however, very great.

News from the Western Indian Territory

Albuquerque, N. M., Friday, March 23, 1859.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your paper of Feb. 18 I see a letter dated Fort Buchanan, Jan. 25, 1859. As this letter states not facts, and is intended to make a necessity for troops, I will correct the most important errors. I arrived on duty at Post Feb. 7, and heard the truth. It appears that the party were on their way to Fillmore, and the evening previous had been assisted by two the Indians to get wagon up a hill. In the morning the Indians returned, and entering camp were driven out and dogs set on them. The Indians watched their chance, sneaked into camp and took the sergeants' rifles and shot them dead. "Just what they deserved." Their wives and families, with all their plunder and money, returned to the Post, under Sergeant Ryan, who gloriously fled. I left the Post Feb. 12, when the families were still at the Fort.

I think the Indians, if not abused, will never molest the mail stations. Your correspondent, Mr. Dunbar, gives a very truthful history of the would-be Territory of Arizona. I saw on the road many persons returning from Gila gold diggings with not a cent, and begging rations. They all told me that, if a train and provisions were not sent, no one would remain to mark the spot. TRUTH.

The California Ocean Mail Service.—The Alta Californian, of San Francisco, contains the following letter from David Hoadly, Esq., President of the Panama Railroad Company:

New-York, March 7, 1859.

Messrs. Forbes & Babcock, San Francisco:

Gentlemen—Will you do me the favor to apprise the people of California, through the public Press, that they need not feel under any apprehension that the recent failure of an appropriation in Congress to provide for mail transportation will be followed by any interruption of service between this port and San Francisco, via Panama.

In the dilemma of the Post-office Department, caused by the failure referred to, I beg to say that this Company will cheerfully undertake to perform its part of the service, and in every other way in its power facilitate the efforts of the Government to maintain the same regularity that has prevailed on that route for the last ten years, looking to the further action of Congress for compensation.

I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant.

DAVID HOADLY, President.

THE BROOKLYN WATER CELEBRATION.

Immense Turn-out of the People.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

Procession, Speeches, Fireworks, &c.

Yesterday there was a steady stream of people pouring into Brooklyn from New-York by way of the various ferries. Those who had the whole day at their disposal went over early in the morning, and many others, who had not the entire day at command, postponed their departure until evening, when they hoped to see the private and public buildings sparkling with transparencies, and the square in front of the City Hall brilliant with fire-works. The number of strangers crowding the streets; the lengthy procession, composed of firemen, soldiers, tradesmen and those from abroad who had assembled to honor the occasion, and more than all the event which the pageant celebrated—the introduction of water into the city—all combined to render yesterday an epoch in the history of Brooklyn. Early in the morning a detachment of 500 Metropolitan policemen invaded the city, and distributed themselves through the various Wards to check any disturbance which might arise, and to be on the look-out for rogues. Happily, their services were not specially needed. A few general facts will set forth the magnitude of the display better than any elaborate statement. No special attempt was made at decorating either private or public buildings. Flags of all varieties were lavishly displayed on the shipping and on many of the stores throughout the city. The procession was estimated to be five miles in length. First were the Fifth Brigade, comprising the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Seventieth and Seventy-second regiments. The second division was made up of Governor MORGAN and staff, and other invited guests, the Orator of the day, and the Common Council of Brooklyn, mostly in open barouches. Firemen composed the third division. Their display was unusually fine, although but about two-thirds of the Department was out, and the visiting companies had returned home, with the exception of two. A distinguishing feature of the division was three steam fire-engines. Trades composed the fourth, fifth and sixth divisions. Among them were one hundred ice-men, equipped with implements used in the trade. It formed in Bedford-avenue; right resting on Myrtle avenue, and moved at 12 o'clock, passing through Bedford-avenue. Near Morton-street the citizens had erected a triumphal arch, at a cost of about $1,000, under the direction of Alderman SCHOLES. It was 48 feet wide, by 36 feet 6 inches high. On the top was a figure of Neptune, and on each corner of the arch a hydrant and hose. On each side a shield enclosing the names of the Water Commissioners, Engineers and Contractors. A large eagle occupied the centre of the arch. At the westerly side was a stand occupied by a band of music. Opposite, on a similar stand, were seated 75 misses, dressed in white, blue and pink sashes, and wreaths of natural flowers about their heads. As the head of the procession reached this point, the Grand Marshal, Major-General DURYEA, President of the Water Works, Mr. WALL and the Orator of the Day were presented with wreaths of flowers by the young ladies. Boquets were thrown by them to the Committee of Arrangements and Engineers.

Upon a wreath being presented to Mr. WALL, MARTHA HENDERSON, about 11 years old, stepped forward and delivered an address written by Miss SARA HAMILTON, both of the Lee-avenue Sabbath School.

During the passage of the procession the children on the stand sang several songs. From Bedford-avenue the procession passed into Fifth-street, through Fifth to South Fourth-street, to Ninth, to Grand, to Bedford-avenue, to Myrtle-avenue, to Clinton-avenue, through Fulton-avenue to the City Hall.

The avenues centreing at the City Hall were more or less crowded all day long. People began to assemble at as early an hour as that named for the starting of the procession, willing to sacrifice time to obtain a respectable stand-point from which to view proceedings. Windows facing the square in front of the Hall were, of course in demand. Five, and even as high as ten dollars were offered for the use of single windows for the day. Enterprising speculators who had more regard for the half dollars of the populace than for their lives, erected precarious looking structures, dignified with the name of platforms, on which seats were rented at fifty cents and a dollar each. There seemed to be no great rush of customers to these places, and it was fortunate that such was the fact, as overcrowding them must have resulted in some disaster. As the day wore on vacant windows were filled; people who had been avoiding the crowd by remaining in the bye streets gradually came up into the square, and by the time the procession made its appearance the scene was brilliant and animated in the extreme. Little boys, who had been drinking Ridgewood every five minutes during the day, stopped experimenting with the hydrants; the fountains, which had been bubbling up freely, threw a higher and a higher and a stronger stream; the mock huzzas which had greeted the appearance of every cart, wagon or horseman, grew earnest and hearty, and a unanimous display of white handkerchiefs was made on all sides as the head of the procession came into sight. It was precisely 3 o'clock when the policemen, who acted as pioneers of the line, passed the City Hall. Going around the fountain, it turned into Court-street, thus giving spectators at this point a double view. One hour and a quarter after the head of the procession had passed and been forgotten, it took every one by surprise by reappearing in Fulton-street, having performed the prescribed round, going up Court-street to President, through President to Henry, down Henry to Fulton, thence back to the City Hall. Passing into Myrtle-avenue, to avoid confusion, it was disbanded. Half an hour afterwards the last of the procession appeared, having occupied an hour and three quarters in passing the City Hall. In the mean time the wind had blown the spray from the fountain directly toward the platform which had been erected for the speaker, making the intervening space a complete mud-puddle. Men brought on canvass to extemporize a covering with which to protect the dignitaries who were expected to occupy the stage. While they were attempting to draw it over the slim supports one of them gave way, and the man who happened to be on top was precipitated headlong to the stage, a distance of about eight feet. Nothing broke his fall, and it seemed a miracle that no bones were broken. His lips and nose were badly cut, but no serious injuries seemed to have been inflicted. The crowd waited patiently for the orator to make his appearance, but for some reason unknown to them he did not come. Some surmised that the premature publication of the oration in an evening paper of the previous day had obviated all necessity for its delivery. On inquiry it came out that a collation had been served up in the City Hall to the invited guests, and that they with a select few had retired to the Committee Chamber where the oration was to be delivered. No public notice was given of the change in the programme. Alderman KALBFLEISCH presided, and introduced the orator, RICHARD C. UNDERHILL, Esq. Mr. U. sketched the history of the introduction of water, touching upon the various struggles which preceded the final accomplishment of the work, and deprecating mentioning the question with politics in any way. He was frequently interrupted by applause, and when he sat down three cheers besides a unanimous vote of thanks were given him.

After the ode which was prepared for the occasion had been sung by Mr. STEIN, there were vociferous calls for various gentlemen, but Alderman KALBFLEISCH stated that Ex-Mayor TROTTER would make some remarks.

Mr. TROTTER said that it was a long time since he was connected with the City of Brooklyn. Then there were very few avenues or streets such as there are now. At that time, however, in 1834-'5 and '6, he foresaw that vast improvements must be made in the city in a few years. Where the City Hall stood now was then thought to be too far out of town to be a proper location for such a structure. It was finally concluded to erect it there and the building is inside the centre of the City. It was proposed as early as then to construct reservoirs for water, but nothing definite was done. Ex-Mayor TROTTER expressed his great gratification that the work had been so well and so successfully accomplished. In conclusion, he expressed it as his firm belief that the population of Brooklyn, from the relation which it bore to New-York, would increase in a more rapid ratio than that of the latter city.

Ex-Mayor TROTTER having been duly applauded and cheered, the Mayor of Richmond, Virginia, came forward.

He desired to tender profound acknowledgments for having allowed him the honor of witnessing what he had seen. [Applause.] Should he consult his judgment instead of his feelings, he should keep silent, but he could not forget where he was and whence he came. Tuesday evening he took tea with his own family, and a few hours had brought him to the place where he then stood. The same Constitution which was over him in Virginia was over him here. [Applause.] It was a silent and a sleeping bond uniting the people of different States, than which there could be no stronger tie. [Three cheers were here given for "Old Virginia!"] If I interpret the the meaning of that instrument aright, said the speaker, it means that the rights of the people of one State shall be those of the people of another. [A voice, "That's the doctrine."] When he crossed the line of New-York State, he became a citizen of that State, and had a right to address its people as fellow-citizens. Standing as he did between Bunker Hill and Yorktown, he could claim a citizenship from both. [Great applause.] In concluding, Mayor M. referred humorously to a bouquet which had been thrown into his carriage while he was in the procession.

If he could find out who threw it to him he said he would send back from Virginia the best young man he could find to claim her hand. Brooklyn had a great reputation for her beautiful streets and her beautiful Heights, but if it only had the beauty of its women to rely on, he thought it might claim the title of being the handsomest city in the States. [Laughter, applause and three cheers for "Old Virginia."]

Mr. CORNMAN, a member of the Select Council of Philadelphia, next spoke. He asked what were the deeds of ancient cities compared with the scenes witnessed to-day. Their triumphal processions were to signalize the crushing of cities and the dismembering of States, but this celebration has been to commemorate the inflowing of the limpid stream of life. Mr. C. then sketched the history of the Philadelphia Water Works. He continued to say that they knew nothing of imaginary boundaries between States on such a commotion as this which they had met that afternoon. They had been told that opposition had been made to the great project which had been consummated that day, but, said he, we live in an age of advancement, and when we think anything must be done we go ahead in spite of the croaker, and if we fail we think we have done all in our power. That fountain in front of your Hall has washed out, with its streams, every particle of opposition. [Applause.] Boston is here to-day, Virginia is here, Washington is here, and there is not a spot to tarnish a single link of the chain that binds us together. [Applause.] It is a glorious idea that we can stand here and say, each one of us: "I am a citizen of the United States!" He returned sincere thanks on behalf of the delegation he represented for the honor which had been done them, and retired amid hearty applause.

Mayor ALLEN, of Hartford, was next introduced. He came to exchange congratulation with the citizens of Brooklyn on the completion of this great work. Prominent among the works of the present day, would be those of this character. It is impossible to estimate the advantages which will accrue to a city from such improvements. They had in Hartford works similar to these, and had watched the progress of these works onward and upward to public favor. As an investment, it had proved with them a profitable one. In Hartford, it would soon support itself, from the revenues of the water right, and they even anticipated the time when it would pay back the principal and interest of its cost. Then they hoped it might be free to every one. No prophetic inspiration is needed to foretell such an event as this. He asked leave to say that a citizen of Hartford had given the people of Brooklyn the means of raising the water to the required elevation by aid of steam engines. Mayor ALLEN concluded by congratulating the citizens of Brooklyn on the completion of their great work.

[Three cheers were given for the Mayor of Hartford.]

Alderman KALBFLEISCH asked whether any other deputations were present which desired to be heard. No one responding, Mr. STEINS volunteered to sing "The Star-spangled Banner."

Mr. TURNER, of Buffalo, and President of the Council, said a few words on behalf of the city he represented, returning thanks for the various kindnesses shown, and tendering congratulations.

The President of the Baltimore Council spoke to the same effect.

Mayor Powell then thanked the various delegations present for the trouble they had taken in coming, many of them from great distances, to assist in celebrating this event; they felt under peculiar obligations, from the fact that they had been detained two days instead of one. Should any of them ever stand in need of the help of the Brooklyn authorities, they might be confident that it would be cordially given.

It was then announced that the fireworks and transparencies were about to be displayed.

The celebration was continued until a late hour in the night. The fireworks and illumination attracted thousands of people to the city, and the streets were more crowded if anything, than during the day. The display in front of the City Hall was fine. The building was illuminated by 1,800 Chinese lanterns. The Station-houses, armories, engine-houses, and other public buildings throughout the city were similarly lighted. A large number of private residences were also illuminated. A fine display was made at the gas-office on Remsen-street, and at STRATTONS & CHAPPEL's, on Orange street. The demonstration afforded great satisfaction to participators and spectators.

OBITUARY.

The widow of Gen. Arthur O'Connor, daughter of the Marquis de Condorcet, has died in retirement on her estate, in France, where she has been interred in privacy. Her husband, the Irish rebel, was from Bandon, and was brother to Roger, who rented Dangan Castle from the Wellesleys, and who begat Feargus O'Connor, the Chartist, to whom the Norwich folks are erecting a statue. The dynasty is now extinct.

Lieutenant-General Sir Joseph Thackwell died suddenly at his residence in Ireland, April 8. He participated in the battles of Corunna, Vittoria and Waterloo, and saw much active service in India. He was an intimate friend of the late General Havelock, and of Lord Clyde, Sir Harry Smith, Lord Gough, and other noble and gallant veterans of the army.

He died poor, and leaves a widow and two children, his only relatives in this country.

Porter's Spirit of this week gives a rumor of the death of Tom Sayers, the British Champion. The report comes through a passenger by the Washington, from Liverpool on the 13th April, who states that the statement was current in Liverpool just before the sailing of the steamer. It lacks confirmation.

The death of William Lizars, the eminent engraver, is announced in the Edinburgh papers. He had attained an advanced age, and a high reputation for skill as a connoisseur, as well as excellence in his peculiar walk of art. He is known to the medical world for his authentic "Anatomical Plates."

Mr. W. Moreton Dyer, British Consul at Baltimore, died suddenly in that city on the 23d of April. Mr. Dyer was transferred from Mobile to Baltimore on the promotion of Mr. Mark to the English Consulate at Marseilles.

To Dress the Hair.—One of the best dressings for the hair ever invented is BURNETT'S COCOAINE. It is well known that there is a principle in cocoanut oil, owing to which the hair of the natives of the South Seas, who use it, remains glossy and never falls off. Burnett has greatly improved this oil by chemical purification, and it now not only thoroughly cleans the hair, forming a lather when rubbed on, but keeps it glossy, slightly damp and in form as brushed for a long time. Ladies dressing their hair elaborately for the evening, will find that it will keep it in shape for hours. Its qualities as preventing the hair from falling are truly remarkable.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

EXPERIMENTING ON THE SICK.

Everybody knows that when one drug fails to relieve a patient, the doctors administer another, and that in some cases a dozen modes of treatment are tried in the hope of stumbling upon the right one. What blindfold work! Can that be called a "Science" which runs through the whole drug list in search of something that may be beneficial? Does not the name belong rather to an unchangeable mode of treatment which produces the same effects in all similar cases, those effects being immediate relief and alternate cure? If so, RADWAY'S REMEDIES are the infallible instruments of real Science and regular medical practice is mere empiricism. No human being ever took RADWAY'S RELIEF AND REGULATORS for cholera, colic-biliousness, remittent fever, dyspepsia, brain fever, fever and ague or any acute and painful disease, without experiencing an immediate mitigation of every dangerous and agonizing symptoms. No victim of Scrofula, Cancer, or any other constitutional, external or internal disorders ever resorted to RADWAY'S RESOLVENT, whose tainted blood was not purified and general health restored by its use. In this triplicate of REMEDIES lies the whole practical materia medica.

Remember that it is an established fact, that no pain, ache, or inflammation can continue to agonize the part of the system, when RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is applied.

SOYER'S SULTANA SAUCE.—THIS UNRIVALED and appetizing relish, although but recently introduced in this country, has already become an established favorite, and is pronounced by all who use it "the best sauce yet invented." The manufacturers, Messrs. Crosse & Blackwell, London, wishing the reputation of this sauce to rest on its own intrinsic merit alone, would state in the most explicit manner, that it is not an imitation of any other made. Being composed principally of Turkish condiments, first introduced into England by the celebrated Soyer, on his return from the Crimea, it possesses a piquancy of flavor and delicacy of aroma peculiar to itself alone, and which belong to no other sauce extant. Satisfied of its great excellence, as a stimulant to the appetite, or as an aid to digestion, they simply ask for it a trial, convinced that it must add to the already large consumption, as none ever discontinue to use it. The Sultana Sauce can be had at retail of all the best grocers, and at wholesale of the sole agent,

APPLETON'S RAILWAY GUIDE.

To enable them to select their route previous to starting upon a journey. Judging from the large demand, it appears that the intelligent traveler would as soon think of commencing a journey without his carpet-bag or valise, as without a copy of this desirable

In reference to the accuracy of APPLETON'S GUIDE, the attention of the traveling community is called to the following extract from a letter to the Saturday Evening Gazette:

"Within the past six months, business or pleasure called me into one half of the States of the Union, and over several thousand miles of railroad and I have never arrived at a depot ten minutes late, nor lost a connection—thanks to my pocket companion, APPLETON'S RAILWAY GUIDE—a work corrected and published semi-monthly, which is a model of accuracy, and may be relied on implicitly. A study of its contents has beguiled many miles of their tediousness, while the information it imparts reflects the greatest credit on the publishers."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
From the New-York Herald.

This admirable compilation is increasing so rapidly in circulation that, in this respect, it promises soon to outrival the English Bradshaw. In the care with which the tables are put together, and in the extent and variety of the information which it conveys, it, however, has no equal.

From the Baltimore American.

As the traveling season will soon commence, this comprehensive guide will now be called into requisition. Those who buy it once will never afterward be without it.

From the Boston Journal.

We should as soon think of starting on our journey without a valise as to go on our journey without the latest edition of this useful and entertaining hand-book.

Extract from the Musical Harp.

This is decidedly the best guide in the world—far ahead of Bradshaw's English work. It is illustrated by over sixty maps, and contains over two hundred pages. It is a work that should be placed in the hands of every man, woman and child in the United States.

From the American Railway Times.

This is a most admirably arranged traveler's guide and we cordially recommend it to the public. It is the most complete thing of the kind ever published in this or any other country.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.

Appleton's Railway Guide is, without exception, the most complete work of the kind ever published. Mr. G. F. Thomas, the original projector and compiler of the Guide, was for many years a resident of our city, and is well known to many of our citizens as peculiarly competent for a work of this kind.

From Harper's Weekly.

"Appleton's Railway Guide, which makes its monthly appearance, has become as much of a necessity in America as Bradshaw is in England or on the Continent, while the style puts to shame that dingy publication."

APPLETON'S ILLUSTRATED RAILWAY GUIDE,

Is, without any exception, the cheapest book ever published. It contains nearly 300 pages, nearly 75 maps, a variety of useful and entertaining matter, and is sold at the low price of

BURNETT'S COCOAINE.

We would call the attention of Druggists and the public to the card of Messrs. JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., exposing an imposition to which the public are liable from an imitation of their celebrated COCOAINE. This preparation for the hair has decidedly obtained a high reputation and the spurious preparations which have been put into the market have a tendency to detract from the high reputation of the genuine article.

FIVE DOLLARS ONLY FOR A SET.

PETERSON'S CHEAP EDITION.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE.

PETERSON'S
COMPLETE AND UNABRIDGED EDITION
OF THE
WORKS OF SIR WALTER SCOTT,
With a magnificent STEEL PORTRAIT of
SIR WALTER SCOTT,
Engraved from the last Portrait for which he sat, at Abbotsford, in 1824, with his Autograph under it.
COMPLETE IN TWENTY-SIX VOLUMES.
PRICE 25 CENTS EACH, OR A SET FOR FIVE DOLLARS.

Now is the time for all persons to subscribe to the cheapest and best complete Edition of the Waverley Novels, by Sir WALTER SCOTT, ever published.

This Edition is reprinted from the Original Edinburgh Edition, that was issued in Forty-eight Volumes, and contains the author's last corrections and additions, and will be published, entire and unabridged, in Twenty-six Large Octavo Volumes.

A NOVEL will be issued every SATURDAY, until all are published. Eight Numbers have already been published, as follows:
IVANHOE, on March 5;
GUY MANNERING, on March 12;
ROB ROY, on March 19;
KENILWORTH, on March 26;
QUENTIN DURWARD, on April 2;
THE ABBOT, on April 9;
THE ANTIQUARY, on April 16, and
WAVERLEY, on April 23.
OLD MORTALITY, being the ninth volume, will be published on Saturday, April 30.

And one Novel will be issued every Saturday until the whole Twenty-six Volumes are published, and a complete set will be sent to all subscribers as fast as published, by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States, on our receiving a remittance of Five Dollars for the twenty-six volumes; or a remittance of Three Dollars will pay for the first twelve volumes; or a remittance of One Dollar will pay for the first four volumes.

All persons wishing to subscribe for a set, or any part of the series, need only inclose the amount in a letter, and direct it to T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Philadelphia, and they will then receive the volumes regularly afterward, free of postage.

The works of an author like Scott cannot be too extensively diffused. No one can rise from a perusal of his writings without having been instructed as well as amused. The cause of religion, virtue and morality finds an advocate on every page. It has been well observed by an able and eloquent American critic that "If ever writer deserved universal citizenship, it was Sir Walter Scott. He was the Poet of Nature, the delineator of his species in every climate and on every soil; so that wherever his works were known, there was he to be regarded as a native and a denizen."

It is in this spirit that the Publishers of this cheap edition of the WAVERLEY NOVELS have undertaken to present them to the American people. They suppose that they could not render a better or more acceptable service to the great mass of readers than by placing such a publication within the reach of the masses on the American Continent. The revised uniform Edinburgh Edition, from which this is reprinted, comprises forty-eight volumes, the cost of which is $72. This edition of now in course of publication by us, will contain:

Ivanhoe,
Rob Roy,
Guy Mannering,
The Antiquary,
Old Mortality,
Heart of Mid Lothian,
Bride of Lammermoor,

Glossary for the Novels.

And the whole of the above will be published complete in twenty-six volumes, and furnished free of postage to any person in the United States at the low price of
or $5 for the complete set.

The work will appear in volumes averaging 128 pages each, paper covers, each comprising an entire book, printed on fine white paper, and the whole making upward of 3,300 pages. As the work is already stereotyped, no delay can take place.

The investment and expenditures connected with this undertaking are very great; and it will be apparent, from the low price, that the publishers must rely on an extensive subscription list and sale for a remuneration, and that in every instance a remittance of the amount of the subscription for the number of volumes ordered must accompany the order.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION TO THE TWENTY SIX VOLUMES.

One complete set, twenty-six volumes in all, will be sent to any one as fast as published, to any place in the United States free of postage, for FIVE DOLLARS.

Two copies of each novel, or two complete sets, making fifty-two volumes in all will be sent to any one to any place in the United States, free of postage, for NINE DOLLARS.

Postmasters, Booksellers, News-agents, Canvassers, and all others will be supplied at very low rates, and have circulars furnished them to obtain subscribers with, and they will please send on their orders at once for what they may want of each of the volumes as they appear. There has never been a serial publication issued that you can obtain as many subscribers to. Address all orders, to receive immediate attention, to the publishers.

"Within the past six months business or pleasure has called me into one-half of the States of the Union, and over several thousand miles of railroad, and I have never arrived at a depot ten minutes late, nor lost a connection—thanks to my pocket companion, APPLETON'S RAILWAY GUIDE—a work corrected and published semi-monthly, which is a model of accuracy, and may be relied on implicitly. A study of its contents has beguiled many miles of their tediousness, while the information it imparts reflects the greatest credit on the publishers."

HYATT'S PATENT LIGHTS.
A CARD HAVING BEEN ISSUED TO THE PUBLIC

By parties who frankly confess that they do not pay for my invention, I avail myself of this opportunity to advertise the names of those who do. The following persons, only, are licensed under my patents in this City:

George R. Jackson & Co.
J. B. & W. W. Cornell & Co.
S. B. Althause & Co.

Theodore Hyatt.

The law is, that a person who purchases or uses a patented article is equally liable for infringement with the maker of it. The "makers" having fairly notified the "users" of their intention not to pay, the "users" have only themselves to blame if I collect my tariff of them—as I shall certainly do. THADDEUS HYATT.

INDIA RUBBER GOODS.

CAUTION TO DEALERS IN ELASTIC FABRICS CONTAINING THREADS OR SHEETS OF VULCANIZED RUBBER.—The undersigned gives notice that he holds an absolute conveyance from Charles Goodyear of the exclusive right to use vulcanized rubber prepared according to said Goodyear's patent of June 15, 1844, in all elastic fabrics the elasticity of which is due to the shirring or corrugating the sheets or threads of such fabrics, and in all woven, braided, cemented or sewed fabrics, or such as are or can be covered or protected on one or both sides with substances other than rubber, and in all smooth, elastic shirred goods; and also to make and sell India-rubber threads of vulcanized rubber, and all threads or sheets of rubber which are or can be made or finished by union with or to be covered by fibrous substances. And he hereby gives notice that he is ready to supply the trade with all such fabrics at reasonable rates and has a full stock now in store.

His attention has been called to an advertisement signed by William Judson, in which said Judson claims to be the owner of the right to import and sell such goods.

The undersigned is satisfied that this pretence on the part of said Judson is a fraud upon the public, and is made for the purpose of injuring his business. Said Judson has never exhibited his pretended titles to any Court or to the public, and he does not afford the undersigned any opportunity of commencing any suit against him in order to test these titles. Charles Goodyear could not give any valid titles to said Judson, or to any one else after the titles he had conveyed to the undersigned. The question decided by Judge Ingersoll, in New-York, upon a preliminary motion and partial presentation of the case, was not decisive of the merits of the title of the undersigned, and the card published by said Judson shows that the Court was imposed upon by a pretended title in a third party, which said Judson now claims to have been in himself for the last six years.

The undersigned therefore cautions all dealers in articles of the above descriptions, containing vulcanized rubber, that no such goods can be lawfully sold in this country without his license and stamp, and that he shall prosecute, to the extent of the law, all persons infringing upon his said rights. Orders solicited, and rights to use guaranteed, by HORACE H. DAY, No. 23 Cortlandt st., New-York.

MUSICAL.

THE BRIGGS' PATENT PIANO-FORTE, OR THE VIOLIN PIANO.

It is built upon an iron frame, or bed plate, entirely separate from the case, thus relieving the sound-boards and every other part of the instrument from the strain.

It will remain in tune for many months, and when the strings are settled even for years.

It has convex sounding-boards above and below, like the Violin, which are connected together in the same manner, thus making the entire instrument a vibratory shell.

It has greater depth and fullness of tone, and its sostenuto, or power of sustaining the tone, has never been equaled, except by instruments of the violin class.

It improves with age and use, becoming more vibratory, and the tone purer and more sonorous.

It is the best piano-forte existing, and is recommended by Gottschalk, Thalberg, and many other celebrated artists and professors. Sole agents, WM. HALL & SON, No. 543 Broadway, Between Spring and Prince sts.

AMUSEMENTS.

A CARD.
MLLE. PICCOLOMINI TO THE PUBLIC.

Before saying adieu to a public which has treated me with proverbial generosity, I beg permission to express in the best way offered me, the promptings of my heart.

I came to this country, so grand, so free and so charming is its youth and freshness, with high hopes, which have been more than realized.

An artist who is satisfied is a miracle. I am a miracle, then.

But perhaps the public, or a portion of it, has been disappointed. That is not my fault. Perhaps the announcements on one side were too rose-colored, while the denunciations on the other were too severe.

I never pretended to divine genius. I am simply an artist, who does the best she can in her humble way and is proud to stoop for the smallest flower that may be thrown at her feet.

There may be others who have the divine spark. Perhaps many others approximate it nearer than I.

I love my art, and devote my whole soul to it. I only ask the public to be fair; you have been more. You have been generous, and whatever success I may have hereafter, the reminiscences of my American tour will be among the sweetest of my life's souvenirs.

I would rather stay here than go to Europe. But one—even a spoiled girl, and a prima donna as well—cannot always have her own way; so I must go on the first of June.

And, therefore, I have written this in advance of my farewell performances to thank the public of the whole country (and of New-York especially) for the favor that has been lavished upon me.

More than all this. I shall endeavor in the rôles which I am to undertake for the first time here, to show that this previous favor has not been thrown away, but has encouraged me to new exertions.

And so I salute you all. I would be charmed to do it personally, but the country is so large, and the population so immense, that I really fear the time would not be sufficient.

The public's devoted,
MARIA PICCOLOMINI.

A NEW AUSTRIAN MANIFESTO.

Deaths of Lady Morgan and of Mme. Bosio.

The Royal mail steamship Africa, NIEL SHANNON, Esq., Commander, from Liverpool at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 16th April, arrived here last evening.

The screw-steamship Weser arrived at Southampton on the evening of the 13th, and the Arago reached the same port on the evening of the 14th. Both vessels left New-York on the 2d April.

The steamer Circassian arrived at Galway on the 14th.

The American ship Reindeer, (sugar,) for San Francisco, was totally lost on the night of the 12th February, on a reef, about 40 miles north of Cape Capones, (Coast of Luconia,) on which the ships Bomanjee Hormasjee and Lightfoot were wrecked. Only in October last the Reindeer put back to Manila totally dismasted, and this was her first voyage after it. The crew was saved.

THE AUSTRO-FRENCH IMBROGLIO.

The Actual State of Affairs—Accelerated Preparations for War—An Austrian Manifesto—Position of the English Government.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Times telegraphs as follows:

"VIENNA, Thursday evening, April 14.—Austria has positively refused to become a party to the Congress unless it is preceded by a general simultaneous disarmament. The foregoing is perfectly authentic."

Paris dispatches state that negotiations for the Congress were going on, but that their progress was slow on account of the great difficulties to be overcome.

The Dresden Journal alleges its acquaintance with the fact that, according to a recent counter proposal by France, which is also said to be seconded in other quarters, the Congress would assemble on the 23d April, at Carlsruhe, and would commence operations by resolving on a general disarming.

The Paris correspondent of the London Herald, in his latest letter, says there were reasons for believing that the proposals made by Austria as to the various points to be submitted to the Congress, are wholly unacceptable by the Cabinet of the Tuileries.

The Moniteur was to refer to to the subject in a day or two.

The Journal de Cherbourg announces that the dockyard authorities have received orders to prepare nine gunboats, for active service, without delay. They will form the first division of a gunboat squadron, and are intended for service in the shallow waters of the Adriatic.

The La France Centrale is permitted to announce that, in case of a war, the staff of the army will be composed as follows: The Emperor, Commander-in-Chief; Gen. CANROBERT, Major General; General NIEL, General de Service; General LABŒUF, Commander of the Artillery; General DE MARTIMPREY, Chief of the Staff.

Another article has been published by the Deutsche Post, reiterating with unabated violence the declaration that a Congress is now impossible, and affirming that guarantees are required from France more than from Austria. The article concludes thus:

"Thank God Austria is not the Porte. Austria possesses sufficient life and strength to defend her rights without aid from others. A Congress in which all the Powers should tend alike to preserve peace, and should seek nothing but what is right, would be immediately accepted by Austria. But where she feels convinced that a snare is laid for her, where she could not even find the most ordinary proof of honorable intentions—namely, the removal of armed revolution from her frontiers—there it is her duty to remain apart, and to hold her sword ready to be drawn at any moment from the scabbard, so as not to permit herself to be deceived, and still less to be taken by surprise."

The journal of the private Cabinet of the Emperor, the Patrie, says on the disarmament:

"France will have no change to make in her conduct. She has not armed; she will not arm. She will persist in her attitude, as far removed from menace as from imprudence. She will bring to the Congress the most loyal desire for peace, and she has no pretension to present herself there with her hand on her sword-guard. There will be always time to put her hand on that when it becomes necessary. But Austria and Piedmont are not in the same situation. If Austria wishes to recall from Italy the army she has concentrated there, Piedmont will certainly not refuse to withdraw from Ticino. We are convinced that France would agree with Europe to give her this advice.

But on what conditions does Austria propose disarmament? If she does not make of it a condition for something else, and if she wishes, with entire sincerity, to refer to the arbitration of Europe, it is not France that will be less moderate and confident than she. It is not France that will put obstacles in the way of an honorable and solid peace.

But, if there be at Vienna pretensions incompatible with the security of Europe and the dignity of France; if Austria means that the general disarmament which she proposes is to have for its consequence the maintenance of the status quo in Italy; if, in a word, she will not disarm but on condition of evading, and not of resolving, the imperious difficulties of the present situation, then we can only see in this incident the extreme resource of a cause already very bad, and do not count that France will be the dupe of it.

France has no wish to deceive any one, nor to be deceived by any one whatever. Decided, we are convinced of it, to accept all that is useful and serious, she is not less so to reject whatever is not worthy of her and of the great interests which she has taken under her protection. The best way, then, is to await, to remain calm, not to let ourselves be led away by premature hopes, nor abandon ourselves to exaggerated fears."

According to the Paris correspondent of the London Times, a month or six weeks more would be required before France would be fully equipped to take the field. He says great surprise was expressed that Austria, with such overwhelming forces in Lombardy as would enable her to open the campaign at once, should make concessions. If she thought fit she could crush the Sardinian army at a blow, fall back within her own frontier, and then confidently await the French. If it is true that Austria has yielded to the pressure of the mediating Powers, it is evident the pretext for war ought to be diminished. It is, however, believed there is still a hitch on the proposal of disarming.

All the French naval officers on leave of absence had been ordered to join their ships immediately.

A rumor was afloat that the Emperor would soon depart for Lyons.

The receipt of a memorandum from Count BUOL hostile to Piedmont, was spoken of.

Mercantile letters from Marseilles state that warlike materials and provisions were accumulating at that port to an alarming extent.

Warlike preparations continued to be made by some of the smaller German States. The Bavarian army had been placed on a war footing.

The Times' Vienna correspondent states that during the last few days several of the leading papers had openly declared that the Germans would not shed one drop of blood, either for the maintenance of the special treaties or of the Austrian concordat.

Official Statement from Austria on the Question of a Congress.

Count BUOL-SCHAUENSTEIN has addressed to M. DE BALABINE a note in reply to the Russian overtures on the subject of Italy. The Austrian answer, dated Vienna, March 23, 1859, is as follows:

"The undersigned, &c., has hastened to submit to the Emperor his august master the proposal which M. DE BALABINE, &c., has made to him in the name of his Court, by communicating to him a telegram from Prince GORTSCHAKOFF, under date of 21st, (9th) d. c. (21st of March,) in which it is said that the Emperor ALEXANDER, desiring by a supreme effort to insure the maintenance of peace, proposes the meeting of a Congress of the great Powers, which should endeavor to adjust the Italian complications, and that that proposition has been already accepted by the Governments of France, Great Britain and Prussia.

In execution of the orders of his Imperial Majesty, the undersigned has the honor to make known to M. de Balabine the following reply, which he requests him to bring to the cognizance of his court:

Appreciating at their just value the sentiments which have inspired to his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of All the Russias the overture he has made him make, and desiring to lend his concurrence to a work which must sanction anew the engagements consigned in treaties, and the totality of rights deriving therefrom, the Emperor Francis Joseph accepts on his part the proposition in question.

In the opinion of the Imperial Cabinet, the whole difficulty resides in the political system which Sardinia follows in her foreign relations. To put an end to this state of things, which alarms Europe, and to prevent its return, such appears to be the task reserved to the Powers called upon in the first rank to uphold social order.

If, however, beside this question, which the undersigned considers as the only one essentially important for the moral pacification of Italy, it should enter into the intentions of the Powers to bring forward others for discussion, it would be necessary that they should be exactly stated beforehand, and, insomuch as they should touch upon the internal régime of other sovereign States, the undersigned could not dispense with insisting above all things that the mode of proceeding in this case should be conformable to the rules formulated by the protocol of Aix-la-Chapelle, under date of Nov. 15 1818.

In conclusion, the undersigned must lay stress on a last consideration. To wish to open peaceful deliberations in presence of the clang of arms and of the preparations for war would be not only materially dangerous, but morally impossible. It is therefore indispensable, according to the opinion of the Imperial Cabinet, which the undersigned does not doubt will be shared by all the Powers, that previously to all conference Sardinia must disarm.

The undersigned remains, &c."

The following is a copy of a note from Count BUOL to Lord A. LOFTUS, dated Vienna, March 31, setting forth the Austrian conditions and the interpretation which Austria puts upon the bases of discussion.

"The undersigned, &c., hastens to acknowledge the receipt of the note which Lord A. LOFTUS has done him the honor to address to him under date of the 28th inst., and which contains the conditions upon which the Government of her Britannic Majesty is ready to accept the proposal of a Congress of the great Powers which would take into consideration the complications which have arisen in Italy.

The Britannic Government having, moreover, expressed the desire to see the Imperial Government acquiesce in those propositions, the undersigned has taken, on this subject, the orders of the Emperor, his august master.

He finds himself to-day authorized to inform Lord A. LOFTUS that the Imperial Government, appreciating highly the motives which guide the British cabinet and the sentiments of frank friendship by which it is animated towards Austria, accepts in the measure stated in the sheet hereto annexed the bases of discussion proposed by the note of his lordship.

A fifth point of deliberation which he has thought fit to add, that of an agreement on a simultaneous disarming of the great Powers, will, he does not doubt, be accepted by all the Powers as a new proof of the pacific intentions of Austria.

It results, again, from the note of Lord A. LOFTUS, that if the Imperial Government accepts, on the conditions mentioned above, the proposal of a Congress, the British Government will invite that of France in a pressing manner to insist, in common with it, that Sardinia shall disarm at once, and to give it a collective guarantee for the fulfillment of the engagement taken towards it.

This step which the British Cabinet proposes to take in concert with the French Government is the more conformable to the general interests, as it would be morally impossible, as the Imperial Government has already shown by its note addressed to M. DE BALABINE, bearing date the 23d inst., to carry on pacific deliberations in presence of the clang of arms. The undersigned must the more eagerly desire that these united efforts should have full and entire effect, as Austria could not present herself at the congress until Sardinia shall have completed her disarmament, and shall have proceeded to the disbandment of the corps francs. These conditions fulfilled and executed, the Imperial Government declares itself ready to give, in the most formal manner, the assurance that Austria will not attack Sardinia pending the duration of the congress, as long as the latter shall respect the Imperial territory and that of its allies.

In requesting Lord A. LOFTUS to bring the contents of this note to the knowledge of his government the undersigned takes advantage of, &c.

ENGLISH PROPOSITIONS.	OBSERVATIONS OF THE CABINET OF VIENNA.
I. Means of assuring the maintenance of peace between Austria and Sardinia.	The Congress shall examine the means of bringing back Sardinia to the fulfillment of her international duties, and shall consider the measures to be taken to avoid the return of the present complication.
II. Evacuation of the Roman States by the foreign corps of occupation, and a taking into consideration of the reforms in the Italian States.	The question of the evacuation of the Pontifical States may be discussed. The Congress will leave the details of its execution to the three Powers directly interested. The question of the administrative reforms may be debated. An understanding may be come to on the advice to be given, but its definitive adoption remains subordinate to the decisions of the States directly interested.
III. A combination to be substituted for the special treaties between Austria and the Italian States.	The validity of our treaties cannot be questioned; but if all the Powers represented at the Congress agree among them to produce their political treaties with the Italian States, Austria, on her part, will do the same. She will come to an understanding with the Government co-interested, to be able to present their common treaties to the Congress, and to examine in what measure their revision might be recognized as useful.
IV. Territorial arrangements and the treaties of 1815 shall not be touched.	Perfectly agreed that neither existing territorial engagements nor the treaties of 1815, nor those concluded in execution of those acts, shall be touched.
	V. An understanding for a simultaneous disarming of the great Powers.

The Proposed General Disarmament.

From the London Times.

We understand that Austria proposes a general disarmament, not merely of Sardinia, but of her own forces and those of France. This at least is consistent and efficient. It matters little what becomes of the forces of Sardinia, provided those vast armies whose hostile contact seems likely to grind her to powder are withdrawn from the scene where their collision is most imminent. Let Austria disarm, not merely by withdrawing her troops from the Ticino, but by placing everything once more on a defensive footing, and abstaining not only from menace, but from the power of doing irretrievable mischief. France will then be satisfied; but is there nothing that France may be called upon to do in her turn towards facilitating the general pacification of Europe? Is she to expect Austria to disarm while she encamps an army in the fortresses at the foot of the passes of Mont Cenis and Mont Genevre ready to march into the heart of Piedmont? To this France answers that she cannot justly be called upon to disarm, because she has never yet armed. This quibble can hardly serve her turn. It is notorious that for the purposes of her Italian policy France has collected together a great force at the western foot of the Alps, and we know not in what sense Austria and Sardinia can be said to arm which is not equally applicable to France.

The moral of all this is, that whatever rule we enforce with regard to one Power we must enforce with regard to all. Either all must retain the arms they possess, or all must return to a pacific establishment. This will be a test of their sincerity. If Austria and France are not really negotiating to gain time, or each to put the other in the wrong in a war that appears to be inevitable, they will not reject this proposition, as they have so many others. If they have any honest desire for peace they will readily accept it, and honestly carry it out. We have been paid abundantly with words, vague generalities, and splendid professions; let us see at length what kind of deeds these great military nations are prepared for. The immediate relief to the overburthened exchequers of the two countries is no slight consideration, for they are engaging in a contest in which, although but one can obtain the victory, both are equally certain of ruin. Commerce would instantly revive if we could see such an earnest of sincerity as would be given on each side by the disbanding of a hundred thousand men. Then, at last, the people would begin to believe that these rulers of men have higher and nobler objects than the aggrandizement of themselves and their families, the empty lust for increased territory, and the barren laurels which must be nourished by others' blood and watered by others' tears, and would recognize that human element in the counsels of the great for which they they now seek in vain. The confidence in the finances, in the judgment and moderation of great military monarchies, has during the last few months been sadly shaken. It depends on the next few days to show whether their vast power is intrusted to hands worthy to bear it, or to men whose empty ambition and grasping folly are about to make them the cause of calamities which may justly entitle them to rank with ATTILA or GENSERIC, as the Scourges of God and the torments of the human race.

The Sense of the Stock Exchange.

From the Times (City Article,) April 14.

The general impression seems to be that the real danger of Europe increases in proportion to the magnitude of each new effort to lull her into security, and the present change appears to some minds fully capable of explanation on the assumption that the French Government are desirous to prevent Austria from getting the advantage of striking the first blow, or to put her in the wrong, in case she should do so, by calling the world to witness that it was at a moment when the most pacific assurances were being reiterated. It is also remarked that the news of the goods traffic from Vienna to Trieste being suspended, to leave the line free for military purposes, of the dispatch of troops and artillery by our own Government to the Channel Islands, and of the increased exertions ordered in the dockyards, together with the statement last night of the First Lord of the Admiralty, that circumstances have transpired within the past few days to render it imperative that the best naval advice should be retained at any cost of personal inconvenience, are not calculated to strengthen the belief that the happy turn now rumored is to be much depended upon.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Parliamentary proceedings on the 13th were wholly unimportant.

On the 14th, Lord MALMESBURY in the Upper House, and Mr. DISRAELI in the Commons, announced that the Ministerial statement in regard to the affairs of Europe, which had been promised for the 15th, would be postponed until Monday, the 18th.

In the House of Lords the Earl of DERBY moved a vote of thanks to Lord CANNING, Lord CLYDE, Lord ELPHINSTONE, Sir J. LAWRENCE, Sir J. OUTRAM and other civil and military officers in India, and also to the non-commissioned officers and private soldiers, both European and native, for their services in suppressing the recent Indian mutiny. In the course of some very eulogistic remarks, Lord DERBY said that Lord CANNING was to receive the dignity of an Earldom and Lord ELPHINSTONE that of a Peer of the United Kingdom, as an additional acknowledgement of their eminent services.

Earl GRANVILLE seconded the motion, and after some complimentary remarks from other Peers, the vote of thanks was unanimously agreed to.

In the House of Commons, Lord STANLEY made a similar motion, and after speeches by Lords PALMERSTON, JOHN RUSSELL, Sir DE LACY EVANS and others, all of whom cordially agreed with the flattering terms of the resolutions, the vote was carried unanimously.

On the 15th, in the House of Lords, the subject of the Red Sea and Indian Telegraph was debated, and some objection was raised against the contract entered into by Government with the Company. The further progress of the bill was suspended for the present.

In the House of Commons Lord STANLEY said, in reply to inquiries, that it was not intended at present to dispatch any corps of artillery to India; and that the duty on hardware in India was to be increased from 5 to 10 per cent., such duty to apply equally to foreign and British manufacture.

The Attorney General for Ireland defended the officers of the Crown in regard to the course they had taken in the Phœnix Club prosecutions in Ireland.

It was intended that Parliament should be prorogued on the 19th, and dissolved on April 21, in which case the borough elections would take place on April 27, and those for the counties on May 2.

The missing part of the crew of the wrecked gunboat Jaseur had been saved, and all the survivors had reached England in the steamer La Plata. Of the whole crew only three were lost.

The Brighton Examiner says: "The following communication, addressed to us some days ago, is vouched for by the name and address of the gentleman who sent it: 'A duel was fought on the Downs, near Brighton, yesterday morning, between a young American gentleman (for the past year resident in Brighton) and a Russian officer, lately attaché in the Legation at Washington. The result may interest one or two of your readers who were present when the challenge—sent by the former, was provoked. After one ineffectual fire, he was shot in the pistol-hand, when the seconds interfered and an explanation, before refused, was tendered by the opposite party and admitted.'"

Mr. REED, late American Minister to China, had arrived in London.

Queen VICTORIA held her first drawing-room for the season on the 14th. The presentations in the diplomatic circle included: "By Mrs. DALLAS—Mrs. BURNEWTE, a lady of North Carolina."

Lord SHAFTESBURY in a letter to the Times, gives an account of the operations of the Neapolitan Exile Committee. He says thirty of the exiles have already left, and arrangements are in progress for the departure of nearly all the others. He points out what yet remains to be done for those enfeebled by long years of imprisonment, and speaks in the highest terms of the whole body.

Judge HALLIBURTON, of Nova Scotia, (Sam Slick) has been knighted.

Austria was willing to make important concessions to Prussia in certain matters in dispute, and it was considered highly probable that a perfect understanding would soon be established between the two Powers.

A letter from Naples says that the political prisoners whose fate was determined by the decree of the 18th ultimo, had received passports for the United States. HOLLAND & BELGIUM.

The above Powers are said to have concluded a treaty for mutual defence in case of war.

RUSSIA.

The ukase for the proposed Russian loan of £12,000,000 had reached London, and the subscription lists were expected to be opened in a few days. The price had not been paid, but 68½ or 69 was expected to be asked.

The London Times remarks that the prudence of the English public will soon be tested. Even if Europe were in a perfectly settled condition, the terms contemplated would seem to offer no particular temptation; but with the strong conviction on every mind that, before the lapse of another year, a war may be witnessed that will, more or less, involve all the leading Powers, it is difficult to admit the idea of such a loan being floated.

Under the influence of the considerable fall which took place yesterday in the French rentes, transactions took place in Consols at a fall of fully ⅛ per cent. This depression however, proved merely temporary. Buyers came forward, and the hope is still clung to that the pending negotiations will not prove fruitless. The closing quotations of Consols were the best of the day, and ⅛ ₱ cent above those of yesterday.

The English funds opened heavily at a further reaction of a ⅛ per cent. but the impression then seemed to gain ground that the Emperor NAPOLEON desires further delay, and that consequently the interval required by the English Cabinet before making their promised statement, may suffice to enable some new promises of an adjustment to be prepared and agreed to; hence before the close the market assumed a steadier tone.

In the Foreign Exchanges, this afternoon, there was a slight reaction from the recent unfavorable movement in Austrian rates. Other places were about the same as last post.

The accounts from St. Petersburg, to-day, indicate that the success of the New Loan is deemed very problematical, the quotation of exchange having experienced a further decline.

THE EXTRADITION TREATY WITH THE UNITED STATES.

At Bow-street Police Court yesterday the case of Mr. HENRY J. DAVID, late of New-York, was again brought forward. He had been charged with forgery, kept in prison several weeks, and then discharged in consequence of the non-appearance of the prosecutor. The magistrate said the statement, so far, went to show that Mr. DAVID was charged with forging his own name. A gentleman's character might be seriously affected by such proceedings, and the Extradition act used to inflict great hardships. It was not in the magistrate's power to afford him redress.

THURSDAY, April 28—P. M.

The lowest Stock Market of the season was made this afternoon upon most of the Share list. The almost uniform success of late of the Bear account against the Railway Stocks, was followed up to-day by a precipitate break in Pacific Mail, which, from 87½ yesterday, went down to 80 ₱ cent. this afternoon. The Street had previously become somewhat used to the eccentricities of this Stock, both upward and downward. The sudden fall to-day is therefore less remarked upon than a similar change in any other security would have been. But it was not without its influence this afternoon upon the general list. The reopening of the transfers of the Michigan Southern Company brought about the settlement of some heavy differences against the Bull account, and the Guaranteed Shares were pressed on sale below 33 ₱ cent., and the common stock below 10 ₱ cent. This movement had also an adverse influence. The decline from yesterday afternoon in other descriptions was ¾@⅞ ₱ cent in New-York Central, closing 71@71⅛ ₱ cent.; ¾@1 ₱ cent. in Michigan Central, closing 50⅞; 1@1¼ ₱ cent. in Rock Island, closing 57¾; 1@1½ ₱ cent. in Galena, which sold down to 63 ₱ cent., and ¼@½ ₱ cent. in Harlem Preferred shares. The shares of the Erie Company recovered ½@⅝ ₱ cent. from the price of yesterday afternoon, and Panama and Hudson River remained steady. Pennsylvania Coal and Delaware and Hudson Canal were a fraction higher. The State and Government Stocks were steady, and so were the mortgages of the Michigan Central and Illinois Central Roads. In Erie Bonds the depression continues. The fourth-mortgage fell to 45, and the Convertibles to 20@19½ ₱ cent., with 10½ ₱ cent. coupons attached, reducing the net cost to nearly the price of the shares into which the bonds are convertible at the option of the holder. A false impression as to the relative security of these bonds, compared with the stock, has been created by the following quotation from the Legislative act of 1853, in regard to the foreclosure of mortgages. The inference has been drawn that the common or convertible bonds are less valuable in the event of proceedings of foreclosure than the common stock. But the convertible clause is a sufficient answer to this, although we deem the whole discussion premature, as we are not advised of the slightest purpose of any class of the mortgagees to initiate proceedings for foreclosure. On the contrary, most of the holders of the Second Mortgage, due March, 1869, which has precedence of all others, except $3,000,000, due in 1868, have very recently consented to an indulgence of five years. That the affairs of the Company and the business of the Road are at present under a cloud, is not denied; but all these difficulties seem susceptible of removal by time and a change of administration. The latter remedy we most respectfully urged upon the stockholders in anticipation of the last October election, and we do our cotemporaries of the Press the justice to say that we did not stand alone in remonstrating against the folly of continuing Mr. MORAN in office at a cost of $25,000 salary, after the signal failure of his first year's rule. But the parties in interest, nevertheless, (and for the sake of quiet, we suppose,) voted a second year's trial, which will end by its own limitation in about five months, if not sooner terminated by the voluntary resignation of this gentleman, and the surrender of their trust as Directors by half-a-dozen members of the Board, who, having little or no interest in the Stock, have suffered him to persevere in his mad career of folly and wrangling. The extract from the law of 1853 reads thus:

"1. Whenever default shall be made by any railroad or plankroad company, in the payment of principal or interest of any bonds of such company, it shall be lawful for each and every stockholder of said company, at any time during the process of such foreclosure, to pay to the mortgagees named in such mortgage, for the use and benefit of the holder and holders of such bonds, such a proportion of the sum due and of the sum secured to be paid by the whole of the bonds secured by such mortgage, as such stockholders' stock shall bear to the whole stock of said company; and on so paying such stockholder shall, to the extent of such payment, become and be interested in said mortgage and protected thereby.

2. In case of the foreclosure of any mortgage given by any railroad or plankroad company to secure the payment of any bond of such company, any stockholder of such company shall, for the period of six months after the sale under such foreclosure, have the right on paying to the purchaser or purchasers at or under such sale, or to the mortgagees named in such mortgage, for the use and benefit of said purchaser or purchasers, a sum equal to such proportion of the price paid on such sale, and the costs and expenses thereof, as such stockholder's stock in said company shall bear to the whole capital stock of said company; and on so paying such stockholder shall be entitled to have the same relative amount or interest in said railroad or plankroad company and its road, franchises and other property."

The ease and quiet of the Money Market continue. In Exchange, the movement for the Havre and Southampton steamer for Saturday, has not yet fairly opened. London 109½@110½ ₱ cent; Paris f.512½@f.511¼. The customs to-day are $195,000. The Sub-Treasury forwarded $200,000 in gold to the Department at Washington, and paid out $174,000 here, reducing the balance this afternoon to $6,601,197.

The referees, Messrs. MOSES TAYLOR and ROBERT B. MINTURN, upon the claim of Mr. VANDERBILT against the Pacific Mail Company, have awarded $30,000 where, we understand, about $70,000 was claimed, and $24,000 conceded. The amount being thus settled it now remains to be seen whether further negotiations between the parties in regard to the California Steamship trade will be resumed. The Wall-street friends of VANDERBILT assert most positively his opposition will go on, while the live friends of the Mail Company would be pleased to have it go on, rather than hear to another subvention.

Among the business changes of the first of May we notice the withdrawal of the senior member of the banking-house of WINSLOW, LANIER & Co., Mr. RICHARD H. WINSLOW, who retires to the enjoyment of an ample private fortune, after a Wall-street experience of twenty-five years, and a business career altogether of thirty years. His present firm, succeeding to that of WINSLOW & PERKINS, was established in 1849, and soon after became intimately identified, as negotiators, with the railway enterprises of the West, and of late years with the State Bank and finances of Indiana. They have enjoyed, in a very eminent degree, the confidence of their correspondents, and proved their strength, as well as integrity to deserve it, under circumstances of severe trial in the crisis of 1857. Their temporary suspension of payments, in common with all the Banks, and a large number of banking firms in this City at that time, lasted but a single fortnight. The house is to be continued by Mr. LANIER and the late cashier, Mr. MORGAN, who, in compliment to the good name of the retiring partner, continue the old style of WINSLOW, LANIER & Co. Mr. W. thus announces his withdrawal:

NEW-YORK, April 30, 1859.

As stated in the annexed circular, I now retire from business, after thirty years' active employment therein in this City. This change has been for some time my purpose, growing out of a desire to be relieved from the cares incident to a business life. I part with regret from my late associate, J. F. D. LANIER, Esq., who, with my old friend, our late cashier, Mr. MINOT C. MORGAN, have my entire confidence and warmest wishes in their future course; and I cordially and confidently commend the new firm to our late correspondents, and to all my own special personal friends. The ability, means and character of the new house now formed, are such that I am sure it will command, as it should, the confidence of all.

R. H. WINSLOW.

Several other changes and removals in Wall-street, we understand, are to take place on the 1st prox. Messrs. DRAKE & CARTER, stock brokers separate by expiration of a three years' partnership, in which Mr. EDMOND B. LITTLE has a special capital of $50,000. And Mr. CARTER and Mr. LITTLE continue in the same office as general partners, under the firm of E. B. LITTLE & Co.; while Mr. DRAKE in association with his brother will open an office on the William-street front of the Merchants' Exchange, under the style of JAMES M. DRAKE & Co. They take part of the rooms now occupied by WARD, CAMPBELL & Co., who remove to No. 56 Wall-street; and the other offices will be taken by E. WHITEHOUSE, SON & MORRISON.

All the mortgage bond interest due from the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Company on 1st May will be paid on or after Monday next, at the Corn Exchange Bank. The May interest on the City bonds of Dubuque, Iowa, will be paid by MORSE & WOLFF, No. 41. William-street.

AFFAIRS ON THE TEHUANTEPEC ISTHMUS.—A Tehuantepec letter in the New-Orleans Picayune says: "The engineers of the Railroad Survey report that a new line has been discovered, which will render the cost of the work below the estimate made by Major BARNARD. Passengers over the road report it to be in the most excellent order. Contractors are here for building all the boats and bridges on the stage road. The work will be commenced immediately. The health of the Isthmus is excellent.

The Post-Office Department receipts for the last reported quarter were $1,860,176; the expenditures $874,513, leaving nearly $1,000,000 net. The amount of postage prepaid in postage stamps and stamped envelopes, during the quarter, was $1,376,681 93.
